Canuck Volunteer In Trouble

PERPIGNAN, France, April 2—Five more of the group of 25 would-be volunteers in Spain, arrested last Saturday when they attempted to evade the non-intervention patrol, were formally charged today with infraction of the French law banning volunteer enlistment. One of the five—Arvid Sundsten— identified himself as a Canadian from Toronto.

AIRMEN INFLICT BIG TOLL

SEVILLE, Spain, April 2.—Government planes were reported today to have bombed Cordoba, chief supply base of General Franco's southern army, inflicting a heavy toll of death and injuries.

Paris Sees Franco Wavering

PARIS, April 2—A drop in Spanish insurgent securities on the stock exchange was interpreted here today as an indication confidence of financial circles in General Francisco Franco's regime was wavering.

Stocks of the Rio Tinto corporation which opened yesterday at 2910 lost 210 points in trading and closed at 2700 following reports of disturbances in the insurgent-held area of Spain.

Madrid Arms Batter Way Forward

MADRID April 2—A column of government militia battered its way forward today in heavy fighting on the southern front in a threat to snip the line of communication between General Gonzalo Queipo de Llano's Cordoba headquarters and his insurgent army.

The town of Ovejo, flanked by mountainous country 16 miles north of Cordoba, was expected to fall any hour to the interception drive from the government stronghold, Pozoblanco, about 14 miles further north.

A five-mile advance southwest from Ovejo would cut the main highway running northwest from Cordoba and isolate that provincial capital and chief base of supplies from the bulk of the insurgent forces commanded by Queipo de Llano.

The insurgent forces already had been hurled back from Pozoblanco in one of the most decisive government victories of the war.

King George With His Bettor Half

King George and Queen Elizabeth in this newest picture present a glimpse of the radiant domesticity that makes them increasingly popular with Britons. Their good humor may be due partly, at least, to the fact that the queen had just collected a five-pound bet on Royal Mail, the winner of the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, England.

SOCRED SOLONS AGREE TO BOOST INDEMNITY

Canadian Rockies? Guess Again

So you thought it never snowed in tropical Hawaii! Well, the snow-covered slopes of Mauna Kea, 13,784 feet above sea-level, offer skiers plenty of thrills, as you can see above. Mauna Kea is snow-capped all year round, so tourists stow skis along with bathing suits to enjoy all Hawaii's delights.

Restoration of the 10 per cent. voluntary deduction of the sessional indemnity of $2,000 was agreed upon at the Thursday night Social Credit members of the legislature caucus, it was learned on reliable authority on Friday. The Legislative Assembly Act provides that members will receive an indemnity of $2,000 per session. But effective in the 1932 session the old U.F.A. government, with permission of the house, put through a voluntary contribution of 10 per cent., or $200, to the provincial treasury from the total yearly sessional indemnity. . . . . .

Since that time, yearly estimates have been put through on the basis of an $1,800 indemnity for members. The $1,500 indemnity is provided in budget now before the house, but suspended with the coming in of the interim budget.

At the special session held last August, members were advanced $200 to be deducted from the indemnity due them from this session.

The estimates passed at th's session will provide for the indemnity of the 1938 session, providing it is called before March 31, 1938, so in view of the caucus decision on Thursday the budget will either have to be revised or the additional amount of $200 for each member will have to be provided by special warrant.

The matter also will have to be referred to the legislature as a whole.

MAJ. DOUGLAS KEEPS IN TOUCH WITH ALBERTA

But Only in Unofficial Way Says Leader Of Thought

LONDON, April 2.—Major C. H. Douglas, back in London after a brief absence, said today he is keeping in touch with Social Credit developments in Alberta but in an entirely unofficial way.

He is "continually receiving personal correspondence from Alberta," and recent communications concerned the new administrative commission to bet set up under legislation introduced by Premier Aberhart.

Possibility of the British Social Credit leader's return to Alberta under terms of the new legislation —which leaves it up to the commission to call expert advisors—has been talked of in Edmonton. Major Douglas would not discuss that.

"I haven't received any formal invitation and therefore I can't say whether I would accept if such an invitation should come." He holds the view that "difficulties of the Alberta government do not mean Social Credit has failed," claiming its principles have not yet been fully applied.

EIGHT KILLED, FORTY HURT AS TRAINS CRASH

London Scene Of Bad Accident On 60-Foot High Viaduct

LONDON, April 2. — Eight persons were killed today and more than 40 injured when two suburban trains, crowded with city-bound workers during London's morning "rush hour," crashed on a 60-foot-high viaduct.

One coach was badly telescoped across a live rail and burst into flames. The blaze was quickly extinguished.

The smash was one of the worst train accidents in the London area in recent years.

Some of the dazed occupants of the car swinging precariously on the viaduct crawled from the crumpled coach and along the narrow foothold to safety.

"They looked like swaying tight rope walkers," a rescue worker said.

Others refused to leave the car until ladders were run up to the

FORTIN PLAN REFERRED TO WHOLE HOUSE

Municipal Laws Committee Takes No Action On Charter Change

Unwilling to make any definite recommendation on Edmonton's application for Fortin plan charter amendments, the municipal laws committee of the legislature Friday referred the amendments to the committee of the whole House for a decision. This action was taken on a motion by Jos. Lucien Maynard, minister of municipal affairs, who pointed out that there were only a few members present and that it would be wiser for the whole legislature to deal with the important issue.

The municipal laws committee dealt Friday with the recommendation by the agricultural committee that Edmonton be given no power to adopt the Fortin plan until electors were given an opportunity to vote to accept or reject the $26,000,000 bond debt-deferment plan.

Opening discussion on Fortin plan charter amendments, Mayor Joseph A. Clarke, K.C., objected to

PALESTINE MAY YET BE SPLIT IN TWO UNITS

One Arab, and Other Jewish, Considered by Royal Group

LONDON, April 2—A scheme to split Palestine into two separate units, one Arab and one Jewish, is being considered by the Royal commission of inquiry into Palestine affairs now sitting here, the Daily Herald reported today.

The Jewish state would become an autonomous part of the British Empire. The Arab bill would combine with Transjordania and become an independent Arab kingdom.

Under the reported plan, the Jews would be given the coastal territory stretching from Mt. Jean D'Arce to Gaza with a potential capacity for 1,000,000 Jewish colonists instead of the 400,000 now living there.

Jerusalem would be internationalized and remain under British mandate. The port of Haifa, terminal of the Mosul-Haifa oil pipeline, would similarly be neutralized under British control. The rest of Palestine would unite with Transjordania and pass under the rule of the present Emir of that country.

Father Divine Aide Missing In 'Heaven' Pretty Gal Blamed

LOS ANGELES, April 2 —John Hunt, alias "St. John the Revelator," alias "Jesus Christ," still was missing from his Beverly Hills "Heaven" today, sought on Mann Act charges involving a 17-year-old Denver girl.

The 200-pound white follower of Father Divine, negro religionist, is accused of transporting pretty Delight Jewett here from Colorado for immoral purposes.

The last clue to Hunt's whereabouts was a report by a Pasadena coach worker, where a $25,000 "throne car" is under construction for him, and his negro aged leader.

The 33-year-old scion of a wealthy Cleveland family appeared at the shop last Saturday, dramatically announcing himself as "Jesus the Christ," attendants said. When he ordered the car built two months ago, he told a salesman he was "St. John the Revelator."

An elevated "throne" is placed in the centre of the rear seat of the car, flanked on either side by star-shaped windows. A canopy of milk-white plush, dotted with golden stars, has been designed. A dais before the throne is wide enough for four secretaries, or "recording angels," as Hunt described them. On the radiator he ordered placed an elaborate "dove of peace."

Federal officers were informed the "rolling throne" was destined to be used on his west coast visits by Father Divine and at other times by Hunt.

Detectives sought evidence that Hunt induced Miss Jewett to come to California in the belief she was the "Virgin Mary."

DEBT SLASH LEGISLATION HOLDS CAUCUS

Fifty Per Cent. Cut In Principal May Ensue From Discussions

New debt reduction and settlement legislation was discussed at the Social Credit caucus held Thursday night and will be introduced either Friday or Monday. Following the caucus Premier Aberhart announced the new debt legislation had been under discussion, but he could not say which date would see its introduction.

From other sources it was learned that there will probably be a 50 to 75 per cent. slash in principal.

TWO CREDIT BILLS

There will be two Social Credit bills, both under discussion in the caucus.

The one will deal with debt reduction and settlement and the other will pertain to Social Credit proper.

GROUP OF FIVE

This bill will provide for the setting up of a legislative committee of five, who will in turn ap-

CBC HEAD IS HANDED STIFF RAP IN HOUSE

OTTAWA, April 2—Major Gladstone Murray, general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, was under fire in the House of Commons today for his recent "bilingualism" speech in Montreal.

Conservative leader R. B. Bennett declared that if Major Murray was not speaking with authority of the government "he should certainly be dismissed without any further delay."

Premier King stated Major Murray's statements were unauthorized.

Major Murray addressed the Canadian Club in Montreal March 22 when he was reported as saying the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation is pledged to make Canada bilingual.

MOHAMMED ALI'S BUSINESS AIDES QUIT ETHIOPIA

ADDIS ABABA, April 2—The first group of employees of the British Indian firm of Mohammed Ali—ordered by the Italian authorities to pack up and quit Ethiopia—left this capital today.

The firm, which had offices here, at Harar and at Djibba, was accused of being a centre for espionage against the Italians. Application of the expulsion order was delayed last month as a result of British representations, but the Italians refused to cancel it.

MINE STRIKE IN U.S. COAL ZONE ENDS IN 1 DAY

Speedy Agreement Reached Between Coal Workers and Operators

NEW YORK, April 2. — The one-day soft coal strike was settled this afternoon by an agreement between the United Mine Workers and the operators.

LONDON, April 2.—Officials of the Miners' Confederation of Great Britain announced today that 550,000 coal miners throughout England and Wales would ballot April 15 and 16 to determine whether there should be a national coal strike.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Whistles of hundreds of soft coal mines from Pennsylvania westward to Washington and in the south were silent today as the long threatened strike of the United Mine Workers of America began without fanfare.

The shutdown of the U.S. bituminous industry in which 462,000 men are employed, with the prospect of presidential intervention if it lasts more than a few days, followed the failure of negotiations to effect a new wage agreement in six weeks of conferences.

The miners' demand for time and a half overtime proved the principal stumbling block after other barriers had been hurdled but even as the strike became effective, hope was expressed that settlement could be effected to permit resumption of operations Monday.

The industry, which in 1935 produced coal valued at $700,000,000, shut down with only 30 days' coal supply above ground, operators estimated. The bituminous industry despite inroads by cheaper fuels in recent years, is one of the U.S. principal sources of fuel and power.

SERVICE TAX FOR EDMONTON RECOMMENDED

Municipal laws committee of the legislature recommended to the House Friday that Edmonton be granted a charter amendment which would give the city the power to adopt a service tax.

J. S. McCallum, of the Edmonton Taxpayers Protective Association, spoke to this amendment, explaining that under the existing taxation system the burden fell too heavily on the shoulders of the home-owners. He explained there were about 11,000 burgesses and approximately 30,000 electors.

The service tax, he said, would enable the city to spread the taxation over a larger number of people, the tax being levied according to income.

Rifle Workers' Strike Is At End

COBOURG, Ont., April 2—Strike of 65 workers at the Cooey Rifle factory here ended today when the firm and employees reached an agreement. The men returned to work with a 10 per cent wage increase, a nine-hour day, 50-hour week and a minimum wage of $16 for experienced workers.

2 Killed, One Hurt In Blast At Timber Mill

RIVIERE DU LOUP, Que., April 2—Two men were killed and a third seriously injured when a boiler in a Biencourt lumber mill exploded, it was learned here today. Biencourt is near the Maine border.

The dead are Wilfrid Boucher of Cabano and Alphonse Gagne of St. Honore, Que. Leo Parent was brought to hospital here in an unconscious condition.

The Science Of Money

By HARRY H. HALLATT

The Edmonton Bulletin is running this series of articles by Mr. Hallatt as a service to its readers. The views expressed are entirely those of Mr. Hallatt—EDITOR.

In this article I shall explain how a national money system would quickly solve our economic difficulties by making possible the equitable distribution of everything we can and will produce.

I have shown that money is just numbers representing goods and services which we use as a medium of exchange. I recognize that the state should be the authority for our money, but, on examination, we find that our private banks have the sole right of issue of ninety to ninety-five per cent of the numbers we are using for money. We mistakenly call this banker money credit, but since it is used as a medium of exchange for ninety-five per cent of our current business transactions, it is actual cy.

Having determined the need for and the nature of money, let us consider how we can best go about the business of producing and distributing our wants. For of all, we should consider whether we favor a competitive economy or a completely socialized state, or whether there is some middle road between the two that we can safely travel.

COMPETITIVE SYSTEM

We find that we are now operating mostly under the competitive system, but that we have gradually socialized certain services such as education, the postal service, transportation, etc., to varying percenti-

Editorial

Stop This Usury!

THE FORTIN scheme to hog-tie Edmonton citizens to a ruinous high interest debt extension plan is being exposed during the discussions taking place in the legislative committee.

Alderman Cleveley, unwittingly perhaps, made a good suggestion that he and the other aldermen who favor the Fortin scheme should resign. Having proven false to their pledges, made before their election a few months ago, it is not likely they will have the decency to resign now.

The taxpayers of Edmonton have been swindled and given a lot of hot air by the Bond Dealers for years and now is the time for a showdown.The members of the legislature, without exception, have shown a keen desire, so far, to aid the citizens of Edmonton in spite of the fact six aldermen who proved false and are supporting this outrageous Fortin scheme.

The high interest rates charged cannot be defended when the payment of such usury means the confiscation of taxpayers' homes and which also makes all Edmonton property a liability instead of an asset.

Remember this—there is no sanctity and never has been to the debt contracts made in Western Canada at the interest rates charged.

THINK IT OVER !

COMMITTEE ON SOCIAL CREDIT IS ANNOUNCED

Members of the special Social Credit caucus committee to consider and appoint a board which in turn will name a commission to administer Social Credit in this province are:

Dr. Harry K. Brown, S.C., Pembina; D. E. Ansley, S.C., Leduc; S. A. Berg, Stirandra; Glen MacLachlan, S.C., Coronation, and Floyd M. Baker, S.C., Clover Bar.

This personnel was discussed at the caucus on Thursday night.

It will be the duty of this committee to take the first step toward the selection of men who will be actually engaged in the implementing of Social Credit.

Of the five men named, Lloyd Baker is known to be a strong government man, while the other four have been considered insurgents.

While these members were the choice of the caucus for membership on the committee, they have not as a committee agreed to act, and one said that "it may never function in this form."

Roosevelt Finds Durable Goods Prices Too High

SOUTH AFRICA TAKING STEPS AGAINST NAZIS

PRETORIA, April 2—Sweeping steps against the Nazi movement in southwest Africa were taken by the South African government today.

The territory, formerly a German colony, is now governed by South Africa under mandate from the League of Nations.

The administrator of southwest Africa is empowered to declare any group of persons a public body and any association of persons a political organization.

ALBERTA'S SEED GRAIN LOANS TO REACH $1,600,000

OTTAWA, April 2—Seed grain loans to a maximum of $8,000,000 for farmers in the prairie provinces $1,600,000 of which will be granted Alberta, will be guaranteed by the Dominion government under a bill of which Finance Minister Dunning gave notice in the House of Commons today in a resolution. Such loans are not to exceed in the aggregate the sum of $1,600,000 in respect of Alberta, $750,000 in respect of Manitoba, and $5,650,000 in respect of Saskatchewan.

TWO KILLED IN FARMER FEUD OVER WOMAN

Sedalia is Scene of Tragedy When Triangle Is Bared

SEDALIA, Alta., April 2— Conrad Carlson and Gordon Murray, farmers of Sedalia district, were shot dead near here early today. Police said Carlson shot Murray and then turned his 12 gauge shotgun on himself. Sedalia is about 160 miles northeast of Calgary.

When Murray returned to the Carlson farm with Mrs. Carlson, police stated he was met by her husband who knocked Murray and Mrs. Carlson to the ground and then fired at Murray.

Police said Carlson, an elderly man, had been quarrelling with Murray over a period of years in connection with attentions paid Mrs. Carlson by Murray.

Murray was unmarried. Surviving Carlson are his widow, two sons and three daughters.

ACTION OVER GOLD CLAIMS IS DISMISSED

Considerable Perjured Evidence Alleged by Mr. Justice Ives

"There has been a lot of perjury in this case. I do not know what it is thought can be done with a court of law in this country. I do not believe either of the plaintiffs in this action, and I am not satisfied entirely with the defendant's evidence," stated Mr. Justice W. C. Ives when dismissing the action brought by Edward G. Hickmott and Roy Caskey seeking a declaration from the court of partnership interest in valuable gold claims staked by G. Gordon Latham, defendant to the action. The claims are situated at Yellowknife. Judgment was reserved in the plaintiffs's claim to a partnership in a restaurant and hotel business being operated at the property outpost.

EVIDENCE OF PLAINTIFFS

Dealing with the evidence of the plaintiffs Mr. Justice Ives stated "The plaintiff Hickmott is a man of 40 years; Caskey of 51 years. They each admit they have had considerable experience in card gambling. They discussed the wisdom of a partnership with a young man of 24 years and determine finally to engage in the venture.

"Hickmott takes the young man to an Edmonton gambling club, and their story is, this young chap suggests a gambling system to them whereby they can beat that game of 'black jack'. They are so impressed they undertake to try it and these two old men of experience drop over $1,500 between them and they want the young man who suggested the system to contribute.

WAS NOT CONTRIBUTION

"Now is not that asking the court to do a good deal of measuring? I do not know what it is thought can be done with a court of law in this country. I do not believe either or them for one moment. I do not believe they lost that money in the first place, and if they did I do not believe there was any arrangement it was to come out of the partnership funds, and it most certainly was not a contribution to the partnership capital."

FORTIN PLAN REFERRED TO WHOLE HOUSE

further representations being made on this question, explaining that a recommendation on the issue had already been made by the agricultural committee. The committee had recommended that Edmonton be prevented from adopting the Fortin plan until a vote of the electors had been taken to decide the matter.

A majority of the municipal laws committee decided, however, that it would bear further representations.

AMENDMENT FAVORED

Speaking to the proposed charter amendment which would give Edmonton power to underlevy and thus suspend bond redemption payments to the sinking fund, City Solicitor Thomas Garside explained that the city council was unanimously in favor of this amendment. This charter provision would be required even if the Fortin plan were rejected in order to give the city financial relief by cutting the sinking fund requirements.

Ex-Ald. Rice Sheppard, a councillor for 20 years, was the first delegate to oppose the Fortin plan. He told the committee he represented 600 citizens, the majority of whom had voted against the plan at a mass meeting in the Memorial Hall several weeks ago.

Giving a brief history of Edmonton since the pioneer days, the speaker said this city had once been regarded as the "Chicago of the west." Now, he said, bondmen, by their refusal to cut interest rates and by their proposal to spread Edmonton's debt over the next 30 years, were in effect seizing the stake which the small property-holders had in the community.

ATTACKS FORTIN

He termed J. J. Fortin, father of the bond debt extension scheme, "a sheep in wolf's clothing."

"Although I'm not serving as an alderman at the present time, I still want to speak in their interests," he said. The Memorial Hall meeting, he continued, had represented a cross-section of the community and had voted down the Fortin plan by a large majority.

Mr. Sheppard said he had been a large taxpayer himself, had always paid his taxes and believed he had the right to oppose the Fortin plan. "It's our duty to see that the people of Edmonton are not fleeced," he declared, adding that he had lost half the value of his property because bondholders have demanded "their pound of flesh."

Members loudly applauded Mr. Sheppard at the conclusion of his address.

PATTERSON OPPOSES

Ald. Guy Patterson was the next delegate to speak against the bond debt scheme. "We in the west, and particularly Alberta, are in a colonial position; that is to say, we are a colony which is being exploited by the bond interests . . . We in the west, if we hope to get anywhere, have got to get down to a bargaining basis."

He claimed that Alberta was getting the worst of the bargain at the present time. The east was sapping western resources and was making no concessions in return. "We should be able to use the wealth produced here in the west. . . . We may have a bumper wheat crop this year, but the best part of the value of this will go to the east."

The alderman supported the amendment which would give Edmonton power to reduce payments to the sinking fund by underlevying.

NO REVOLUTION

He scored any thought of revolution, declaring the people could obtain the relief they needed by peaceful but forceful negotiations with bondholders. Edmonton needed the assistance of the province in this connection.

D. B. Marion, M.L.A., observed that the Fortin scheme gave Edmonton no cut in interest rates; it was simply a debt deferment plan.

Ald. Hugh J. MacDonald maintained that the 1936 mill rate of 55 had been "a fictitious figure" and that it should have been over 70. He said the rate would be near this last mentioned figure if the Fortin plan did not go through.

BURGESSES ONLY

He opposed the proposal that the issue be placed before all electors in the form of a plebiscite. Only burgesses — property holders — should be permitted to vote on the question.

Mr. Mullen reminded him that many people who had held property were no longer burgesses because their property had been confiscated. This class of citizen were now electors, and being former property-holders, should have the right to ballot on the Fortin plan.

He could not see how the plan would reduce taxation, declared E. O. Duke, M.L.A., Rocky Mountain.

When Ald. Walter Cleveley took the floor, Mr. Mullen objected to this delegate speaking again. He said Mr. Cleveley had already given members his opinions on the Fortin plan. The committee gave the alderman the right to speak, however.

Ald. Cleveley said that a majority of city council had accepted the Fortin plan and that if the scheme were thrown out, the seven aldermen who had supported it should resign immediately. Rejection of the plan would show non-confidence in the majority voice of council. "We should then resign and Edmonton should be controlled by an outside commission," he urged.

Dealing with the question of who should be allowed to vote on the Fortin plan—burgesses or electors —Mr. Mullen said the electors paid taxes indirectly and also supported the utilities as consumers.

WORK-FOR-WAGES

Referring to the proposed work-for-wages program which Ald. Cleveley said could be launched if the Fortin proposal were adopted, S. A. G. Barnes, M.L.A., asked just how many men could be put to work under such a program.

"Not one single person," replied Mayor Clarke, explaining the debt extension scheme gave the city only temporary relief and did not give any reduction in taxation.

Ald. Cleveley differed with the mayor on this point. If the plan were adopted, cash in the sinking fund would be released, paving the way to work projects.

Mr. Mullen said the legislature only had power to legislate for relief on old debts, but the Fortin plan would place Edmonton in the position of having "a new debt" and the government would not be able to give the city any relief on such a debt.

Speaking for the Edmonton Taxpayers' Protective Association, Dr. G. J. Hope said his organization was urging a substantial reduction in interest rates in order that the principal on the bonds would be protected. He stressed the fact that redemption of debentures depended on Edmonton's ability to pay. This ability would be increased if an interest cut were given by bondholders.

The legislative municipal law committee on Friday made the way clear for Calgary to implement the Fortin plan of equalization of debt settlement of the municipality, which plan was voted on by the burgesses a few weeks ago.

Mayor Clarke Has Alternative Plan

Mayor Clarke presented the following proposals to the Municipal Laws committee at the morning session.

In the event your committee decide to make the necessary amendments to the City Charter, to provide for the implementing of the Fortin Plan, subject to approval by the electors of Edmonton, I would respectfully submit that the City should be placed in a position to carry on in a more efficient and effective manner, as I anticipate the defeat of the Fortin Plan by the electors.

I believe your committee should provide charter amendments and the legislature pass the following:

1—No payments to the sinking fund for the years 1937, 1938 and 1939.

2—That the city's own bonds in the sinking fund be cancelled.

3—That the city be empowered to realize to the maximum of three million dollars of the present sinking fund to provide extensions to the city-owned utilities and other public improvements, including payment on the bank overdraft.

By so doing, your committee would place the city in a position to have the immediate advantages of the Fortin plan, without continuing the strangle-hold of the bond holders at the present time and would save the city many millions of dollars which, I believe the members of the legislature are anxious to do.

Regina Votes For Continuing Wheat Board

REGINA, April 2.—Members of the Saskatchewan legislature voted here today in favor of the federal government continuing the operations of the Canada wheat board for the marketing of the 1937 crop in the event of the report of the Turgeon grain commission not being available in time to carry out its recommendations for the 1937 marketing period.

Terms of the recommendation are contained in an amendment to a C.C.F. resolution.

DEBT SLASH LEGISLATION HOLDS CAUCUS

point a commission of three apart from political control and interference to administer Social Credit. The commission will be empowered to engage any expert or experts as are deemed advisable to give technical advice on the subject of Social Credit.

The caucus took a vote on the principle of setting up a legislative committee to name a commission to administer Social Credit in this province. The caucus voted for the establishment of such committee by 23 to 20. There were 11 members absent from the caucus, including S. A. G. Barnes, Edmonton, and James Hansen, Taber, who have not been attending. One member declined to vote.

The caucus went so far as to discuss names of the commissioners, but no decisions were reached.

This bill, while drafted, is not yet ready for introduction and its draft form may possibly be altered.

In view of this, the legislature is not likely to be adjourned for the long recess until next Wednesday at the earliest, although having been discussed in detail in the caucus the bill is not expected to take long in the house.

WARM DISCUSSION

Discussion in the caucus waxed heated at times, but it all resolved around the ways and means of implementing Social Credit.

Insurgent members have abated, though not discontinued, their opposition. The majority feels that they achieved their object in stirring up the government to action on establishing Social Credit.

Most insurgents, while attacking the budget, declared their remarks were made on account of the failure to establish Social Credit and that the government, by taking action, still could win budget support.

Dr. Brown, in attacking the budget, drew attention to the fact that there was still time to win unanimous support of members on the Social Credit side for the budget, if proper steps were taken.

The general feeling in caucus now is that with debt reduction and Social Credit legislation coming down, they have achieved their objective.

Relief Worker Is Given Damages

OTTAWA, April 2.—A settlement of $3,918 to Lee Graham, British Columbia, for injuries sustained on an unemployment relief project at Oliver, B.C., was provided in an order-in-council tabled in the House of Common Thursday by Defence Minister Ian Mackenzie. That amount is to be placed in a separate account and paid to Mr. Graham at $60 per month.

SEATTLE, April 2.—Grandmother's mustard plasters, hot foot baths and goose grease rubs go marching on, but grandpa's cold remedy—a pint of whisky—drew frowns here today at a regional meeting of the American College of Surgeons.

They insisted that the best prescription is to go to bed and stay there.

"Old remedies for colds haven't been greatly improved," Dr. Perry G. Goldsmith of Toronto, Ont., told the group. He said a pint of hot beef tea may have been evil tasting, but it was sound medicine.

Dr. Wilson Johnston of Portland, Ore., said Dr. Goldsmith's grandmother's cures were excellent, but that grandpa's whisky cure was harmful.

bridge from the main line below.

A heavy rain beat down as stretcher after stretcher loaded with dead and injured was carried to ambulances.

"It was terrible," one survivor shuddered. "People were screaming and moaning from underneath wreckage."

SECOND IN 24 HOURS

It was the second train wreck in London within 24 hours. Sixteen persons were injured in a collision of two trains north of London yesterday.

The accident tied up traffic into London's huge Victoria station, making thousands of commuters late for work.

No reason for the wreck was advanced after a preliminary investigation.

ACCLAIMED HERO

An unknown survivor of the wreck was acclaimed as a hero. His presence of mind averted even a worse tragedy when he struggled from the wreckage and flagged a third train speeding toward the spot where two others crashed.

A commuting train ploughed into the rear of another on a high viaduct between Battersea Park and Victoria station and the third train was approaching at high speed from the latter terminal.

As the unknown passenger ran swaying down the rails and waving to the engineer, the third train pulled to a screaming stop, a few yards from the wreck.

INJURED MAN JOKES

One man, injured internally, joked with the rescuers as they extricated him with a blow-torch and double-handled saws.

"It's a good thing for you lads that I'm not Carnera," he grinned.

A girl, her head smashed, whispered calmly through set teeth:

"Don't let me give you any trouble; look after the others."

The churchman who works at the South Kensington Museum rejoiced because her alarm clock failed to ring.

"For two years," she said, "I had never failed to take the Couldson train, but last night I forgot to wind the clock."

Phone Office Prey Of Flames After Alarm

DUNGANNON, Ont., April 2—Fire which threatened to wipe out this Huron County village, 13 miles from Goderich, was brought under control at 2 a.m. today after a four-hour fight.

Flames broke out in a general store late last night and half-dozen fire departments fought them.

Six buildings were destroyed. The telephone office fell prey after Mathew Wyatt, operator, telephoned Goderich, Kincardine, Lucknow, Blyth and Auburn to rush apparatus.

COMMONS GROUP ON LOANS HEAR OF 210 PER CENT

OTTAWA, April 2.—Possibility of small loan companies operating for one year at a flat interest rate of two per cent per month, to include all charges, and reducing their maximum loans from $500 to $300 was suggested by Finance Minister C. A. Dunning before Commons' banking and commerce committee.

This would be until parliament had an opportunity to review the whole situation respecting small-loan companies.

UP TO 210 PER CENT

G. D. Finlayson, superintendent of insurance, stated that in the provincial loan companies, interest was in excess of 100 per cent in a great many cases, and even as high as 168 and 210 per cent. Some individual money lenders were probably the worst offenders.

Lionel A. Forsythe, counsel for Discount and Loan Company, Montreal, had testified in a day-long examination that United States experience in this field was that small loan companies should be limited to loans of $300 maximum.

BIGGER PROFITS

Otherwise, the lenders' money drifted to the field of greatest profits—the larger loans—and the smaller borrower was likely to be forced to resort to loan sharks.

Establishing a flat rate for all loans was, he contended, a step in the wrong direction, since it decreased the rate in the lower bracket, making such loans less attractive to the companies.

At the same time, United States experience showed that a three per cent rate on loans less than $100 was necessary to absorb fixed costs, he said.

RAISING COSTS

While members objected that this was raising the cost of loans to the smallest borrower, who was in direct need, Mr. Forsythe argued it was idle to talk of loans of $100 if such loans were not going to be made. Massachusetts and Connecticut both had found that the three per cent rate per month eliminated loan sharks.

SEWER SEARCH LAUNCHED IN SEX MURDER

Stiletto-Like Instrument is Sought in Slaying of Model, Mother

NEW YORK, April 2—A thorough combing of the city's sewers was under way in the Beekman Hill section today as police directed their search for the Easter Day killer of Veronica Gedeon and two other persons into new and more fantastic channels.

Police announced the sewage system over a wide area was being searched in the hope of finding the awl-like weapon which brought death to Frank Byrnes, 35, a roomer in the artist model's home.

Meantime the father of Miss Gedeon, Joseph Gedeon, was pushed by detectives through a day of rapid-fire developments that included a city-wide search for five "attractive" women described as frequent visitors at Gedeon's upholstery shop, where he took up living quarters after separating from his wife several years ago.

Gedeon showed emotion when he attended funeral services over the day for his slain wife and daughter.

JUSTICE URGES MAN TO TAKE TEMPER CURE

CALGARY, April 2.—Robert McKenzie, dairy farmer of the High River district, today was sentenced to six months in jail after pleading guilty to a charge of assault. Previously he had pleaded not guilty to a charge of the attempted murder of his wife.

Mr. Justice T. M. Tweedie advised McKenzie that he submit to a four months' examination in the mental hospital at Ponoka to see if a cure could be found for his violent temper. McKenzie replied he would rather serve the jail term.

TAKES BIG MAN TO ADMIT ERROR, SAYS GEN. GOUGH

LONDON, April 2—For 19 years General Sir Hubert Gough has sought vindication of the charge he was responsible for the disastrous defeat of the British Fifth Army by the Germans in March, 1918.

Five months ago Sir Hubert was exonerated of blame by the wartime prime minister, David Lloyd George. At a reunion dinner here, marking the 19th anniversary of the retreat, the general absolved Lloyd George of responsibility for his earlier criticism of the Fifth Army.

WAS MISINFORMED

"As prime minister at the time of the war, Lloyd George made severe criticism and allocated blame to the Fifth Army for the March retreat in which we were so disastrously involved," Sir Hubert said. "This was owing to the fact that he was misinformed—grossly misinformed.

"Having come to the conclusion that much of the information was untrue and that the blame was unfair, he has had the generosity and the greatness of mind publicly to say so, on more than one occasion. For these qualities we cannot but admire him as well as thank him.

RARE IN GREAT

"Such qualities are not always found among the great ones on earth. It is easy to let sleeping dogs lie and I venture to say that a lesser man than Lloyd George would have smoothed his conscience with the reflection that after such a lapse of time it was too late to reopen the question and he would let them sleep.

"But it is evident that the courage and strength which Lloyd George brought to the conduct of the Great War are undiminished, and it is only a very great man who will admit he was wrong and have the courage to allow his admission to be published."

New England Fears Becoming Isolated Island

BOSTON, April 2.—Frank S. Davis, manager of the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, declared today the New England states would become an isolated island if the proposed St. Lawrence-Lake Champlain-Hudson river waterways project was executed.

EMPLOYERS, PENALTIES ATTACKED

Nearly All Sections Of Labor Bill Opposed In House

With practically all sections approved, the bill providing legal means whereby trades unions can organise and enter into the practice of collective bargaining, now in the committee stage of discussion, was stood over for further discussion by members in the house on Thursday.

One section in this bill, providing for penalties for employers, was the object of attack by Liberal and Social Credit members.

The bill also provides for penalties for employers who penalize employees in order to prevent them joining trades unions.

TEXT OF ACT

The sub-section which proved the brunt of the attack was as follows:

"Every person who is a director or has the management of the business of a body corporate which commits any act in contravention of this section, shall also be deemed to have committed such act unless he proves that he endeavored to prevent the commission of the act."

Hon. Lucien Maynard suggested an amendment that an employer must have knowledge of the action under consideration. But if there was no knowledge of the act, then he could not be held responsible.

A. E. MacLellan, S.C., Innisfail, asked who was going to prove whether a man was guilty if he simply replied that he did not know.

Hon. Mr. Maynard replied that the directors might be in Ontario and might not know anything about the act, but directors here would be familiar with it.

I. M. McCune, S.C., Gleichen, asked if the court would take all the circumstances of the situation into the case if a man stated he did not know anything about it.

WANT NAMES

Hans Wight, S.C., Lethbridge, said that "we feel we must have an individual—a corporation. If they can go ahead and break a law of that kind and if you have no means of pinning it on some individual, then all you have got is an unidentified corporation. We have to have the means of collecting some person, some man in the corporation. Now for the sake of the labouring man, I think this Act should stand on it, as it is."

Mr. MacLellan thought that the fact remained a director of a company or a manager may not intimidate them and there was no way in taking care of that unless the Act was left as it is.

CAN'T ESCAPE

Mr. O'Connor charged that one section violated a principle of British justice in that a man was innocent until he was proven guilty. "It does not matter when it comes up," he said.

S. A. G. Barnes, S.C., Edmonton, said that the directors of corporations should be familiar with the bill and could not escape its provisions on account of ignorance.

NOTED SPAIN WAR FIGURE IN TORONTO

French Artist Formed Base Of Madrid Air Defence Force

TORONTO, April 2—One of the most striking figures of the Spanish civil war arrived in Toronto today.

He is blue-eyed, slim Andre Malraux, darling of the literary critics for his revolutionary novels and organizer of the Madrid government's air force at the outset of the Franco revolt in Spain.

Malraux, 35-year-old Frenchman, winner of the Goncourt prize for his novel of the Chinese uprising of 1927, is regarded by many as the perfect fusion of artist and revolutionist.

BOMBED AIRDROME

He himself bombed and destroyed the insurgent airdrome at Avila. The famous Malraux squadron, without its leader, shattered the insurgent airdrome at Salamanca. Malraux was injured in a crack-up at Teruel last December. When he was released from a Valencia hospital that was without anaesthetics he decided it was high time that situation was remedied.

While his injuries were healing he made a five weeks' tour of the United States. Partly as a result of his work, the League Against War and Fascism in America this week is sending 100,000 bottles of anaesthetic to Spain.

Historic and Gem-Encrusted Crowns To Be Used At The Coronation Of King George VI

THE CROWN OF ST. EDWARD

HIS MAJESTY KING GEORGE VI.

THE IMPERIAL STATE CROWN

These two crowns, both of them priceless treasures and of great historic interest, will be used at the coronation of His Majesty King George VI. They are among the Crown Jewels of England, closely guarded at all times, but now being burnished for the magnificent ceremony on May 12. At the left is the crown of St. Edward, usually called the crown of England. This crown was made for Charles II, and is a copy of that worn by Edward the Confessor. It is this crown which the Archbishop of Canterbury will place on the head of the monarch in the coronation ceremony. The Imperial State Crown on the right is worn by the King upon all state occasions after the coronation. The existing crown was made for Queen Victoria in 1838, and is encrusted with historic gems. Among them are the ruby of the Black Prince, the earrings of Queen Elizabeth and a diamond from Edward the Confessor's ring. In the front of the crown is the famed Star of Africa, a 509 carat diamond cut from the Cullinan, and the crown contains in all 277 pearls, 17 sapphires, 11 emeralds and five rubies.

WHO GETS THE MONEY?

Parliament has generously increased the intermediate tariff on furniture of all kinds from 30 to 37½ per cent. On condition, it is to be hoped—but hardly supposed—that the furniture makers will pass along some of the profits to the under-paid employees the public heard about when the Price Spreads Commission was letting light into the dark places of industry.

Unless that condition is definitely attached to the concession, the findings of the Commission suggest the wages of the factory-workers may go down instead of up. The conclusion to which those findings led was that the rule in this and some other industries is "the higher the protection the lower the wages."

BASIC QUESTIONS

Mr. Lampley, member for Peace River, stated the case when he said in debate that prosperity certificates had failed because "In the first place we have no credit." That is the unpleasant but uncompromising fact.

The certificates were cheques on a bank where there was nothing on deposit. Had they been cashable at any time, the actual value of a certificate would have been exactly the amount of the stamps stuck on it. Since they could not be cashed until completely stamped, and no one knew that they ever would be completely stamped, their value was purely speculative. Those who accepted them did so in favor of being able to pass them along, not because of their inherent worth.

Can there be a distribution of Social Credit dividends when there is an absence of actual credit? That is the question to be asked. And it is distressingly clear that the province has no actual credit. How can a government give away what it hasn't got?

"RATTLED" THROUGH

"Rattling through practically all the legislation on hand, members introduced 10 new bills into the house, gave second reading to three bills, gave third reading to six bills, reported 11 bills from the committee of the whole for third reading, referred two bills from the committee of the whole to the agriculture committee."

A columnist in the officially authenticated press thus tells what the legislature did Wednesday afternoon, after a "truce" had been arranged between the Loyalists and the Insurgents, with the latter in a position of "armed neutrality."

That is the kind of legislating that makes work for the lawyers, clutters up the courts, creates confusion in the minds of the public, and makes trouble for future sessions in amending the legislation thus "rattled through." There was reason in the protest of a member the other day against the bulk output of legislation, most of it produced on the quick order system. Fewer laws, framed with more care, would make for less litigation—and less need of it.

TRADE AND PEACE

Mr. Norman H. Davis, "travelling ambassador" of the United States, is in England to talk about better trade relations. And immediately the inference is drawn that he will also talk about world peace.

Remarkable, is it not, how the ideas of trade and peace associate themselves in the minds of people everywhere, even in the minds of statesmen who block trade while they pray for peace. Nobody ever suggests the building of tariff walls or the severance of trade relations, as a means of creating good feeling between nations. The thing is patently absurd. Too absurd even for the stoutest believers in exclusion, quotas, and all the other trade-killing devices known to man.

The fact, instinctively recognized everywhere, is that trade makes friends and keeps them; no one picks a quarrel with a good customer. There is plenty of contemporary evidence also of the complementary fact that refusal to trade is a positive incitement to unfriendliness. What two countries ever built trade barriers between them without starting a trend toward less cordial political relationships?

"The piping times of peace" was no idle phrase. Peace times are "piping" times because they are times when trade flows freely.

WHAT ABOUT WHEAT?

The experts in London, than whom there are no better, are now telling the world there isn't any wheat surplus. What is more—they say there never was, other than a merely temporary commercial surplus produced by two very favorable growing seasons in all the great exporting countries. And still further, that there has been actual under-production every year since 1930.

The admission comes late, but it comes from high authority. And it is emphasized by apprehension, approaching panic, in the old lands at the possibility of near-famine prices for bread some months hence. Crop failures over any of the great growing areas of the northern hemisphere would put the world on short bread rations; that seems to be the accepted prediction.

It is time now to hear from the crop-curtailers who were so busy in Canada—and elsewhere—up to a year or so ago telling the farmers to stop growing so much wheat. Wheat-growing in western Canada, they said, was finished as a profitable business. Farmers would have to grow something else—what, not stated. Prices would never come back. The former importing countries were "growing their own" and would go on doing it. The exporting countries were permanently ruled out of their markets. There was nothing for it but "economic nationalism" applied to wheat-production. The exporting countries would have to eat what they grew, and stop growing more than they could eat.

All this was dinned into the ears of the western farmer with a confidence that admitted of no doubt and scoffed at argument. Where was there a chance to sell wheat in the new economically nationalized world, or would there ever be?

This line of "bunk" may have been handed to the farmer in good faith. What it did was to obscure the fact that there never was too much wheat in the world; but that stupid trade policies and equally stupid monetary policies were cheating the grower out of his wages and ruining him to boot.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Mrs. K. D. S. wants to know: "What makes my little boy sleep with his mouth open? During the day he breathes through his nose but at night he breathes through the mouth."

ANSWER: The principal cause of mouth-breathing at night in the young child is an enlargement of the adenoid tissue. Occasionally, the interference with normal breathing arises from chronic nasal obstruction due to catarrh. Mouth-breathing is undesirable for several reasons and may in time cause facial defects. I have prepared an article on Adenoids which will be sent to you and which answers some of the common questions about enlarged adenoids. This article is available to any one desiring a copy and may be secured by writing to me in care of this newspaper and enclosing one large self-addressed stamped envelope. Whether the mouth-breathing is due to enlarged adenoids or to chronic catarrh, the patient will benefit from a regimen which will improve the general health. Such a regimen includes a short fast; the use of a restricted diet which is limited as to starch and sugar but which provides an abundance of raw and cooked vegetables; baths; plenty of fresh air and outdoor play; and adequate rest. It is extremely important to make sure that a normal intestinal elimination be obtained each day. If these measures do not overcome the mouth-breathing, and when an examination shows that adenoid tissue remains abnormally large, then surgical removal of the adenoids may be necessary. Try the natural methods first as there is everything to gain and nothing to lose. Very often the general health-building measures I have described will produce excellent results and they should be given a reasonable period of trial and then, if they do not succeed, surgery may be used.

Dr. Frank McCoy's great book "The Fast Way to Health" gives you the mechanics of health in plain easily understandable language.

Poems That Live

A STEIN SONG
From "Spring"

Give a rouse, then, in the Maytime
For a life that knows no fear!
Turn sunlight into daytime
With the sunlight of good cheer!
For it's always fair weather
When good fellows get together
With a stein on the table and a good song ringing clear

When the wind comes up from Cuba,
And the birds are on the wing,
And our hearts are patting Juba
To the tango of the spring,
Then it's no wonder whether
The boys will get together
With a stein on the table and a cheer for everything.

For we're all frank-and-twenty
When the spring is in the air,
And we've faith and hope a-plenty,
And we're life and love to spare;
And it's birds of a feather
When we all get together,
With a stein on the table and a heart without a care.

For we know the world is glorious,
And the goal a golden thing,
And that God is not censorious
When his children have their fling;
And life slips its tether
When the boys get together,
With a stein on the table in the fellowship of spring.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

In the State of Washington where all public offices are decided by vote, a popular orchestra conductor was elected as Lieut.-Governor two or three years ago.

When a Hollywood studio made the film "Thanks a Million", it paid the Lieut.-Governor of Washington a tribute. It had one of its characters, an orchestra leader, say, "I see that in the State of Washington they made an orchestra leader Lieutenant-Governor. I ought to be able to become anything after that."

Shades of Samuel Smiles and the "Self-Help" series! Instead of accepting the speech as a tribute to his success, the Lieutenant-Governor has started suit against the film company for slander. He calculates the damages done to his artistic and political prestige at $250,000—or at the rate of $10,000 a word for the twenty-five words of the little speech.

I wouldn't mind becoming Lieut.-Governor of Alberta if only some wealthy film corporation would slander me good and plenty by having a character say, "I see that in Alberta they have made a newspaper columnist Lieut.-Governor. I ought to be able to become anything after that."

These orchestra leaders have all the luck.

A lawyer friend tells me that many a man is made the victim of "nuisance" suits when he lives in one province and has business interests in another. Clever claimants, or their advisers, count that under such circumstance a man threatened with suit will settle for a small sum rather than pay more money on travel and time away from his regular work to contest a suit—especially where there is no hope of recovering costs if the action is dismissed.

One reason why it is hopeless for unknown writers to send scenarios to the Hollywood studios and expect a reading, is that the studios, having had to face many suits founded on alleged plagiarism, now refuse to read uninvited scenarios. There are only about a couple of dozen dramatic situations in life, and it is difficult to prove that a dramatic situation used in a film production was not taken from or adapted from a manuscript that had been read and rejected.

A couple of author friends tell me their contracts with publishing houses contain a clause obligating them to refuse to read any other writer's manuscript. Anything sent to them with a request for reading or opinion, whether from friend or from unknown, must be returned unopened. It saves them a waste of time, but the real purpose of the publisher is to protect himself from suits for plagiarism. Even experienced and versatile writers like H. G. Wells and Eugene O'Neill have had to face plagiarism suits. Creating small fortunes to defend, they were brought by unknown writers who had sent their M.S. to the authors with a request for a fraternal opinion.

Doctors, too, are easy marks for blackmail and conspiracy. One man whom I know admits paying to an unknown woman who disarranged her clothing and threatened to scream if he didn't hand over some money. The medical association have had to give serious consideration to means of combatting spurious malpractice suits.

In his autobiography, Doctor Adolf Lorenz, famous Austrian orthopedist and founder of modern surgery, confessed to having once been made a victim of blackmail and conspiracy on several occasions. On his two American visits the amounts claimed in indemnity actions totalled half a million dollars. The largest and flagrant claim occurred in New Jersey. Lorenz received a writ demanding $450,000. Neither Lorenz nor his assistant could remember the plaintiff, though it turned out he had called upon Lorenz for advice on an operation. The basis of his claim was that following an operation by Lorenz he was unable to sit or drive his car, and that his hip had become stiff.

The fraudulent plaintiff overlooked one important matter. On the day Lorenz was alleged to have performed the operation, he was actually on a ship in the Bay of Naples, instead of being in an operating room in Newark, N.J. Confronted with this serious flaw in his case, the plantiff decided to discontinue suit.

One threat that Lorenz settled by payment of heavy damages was made by a lawyer in Hungary, who had undergone operation for progressive ankylosis of the spine. The patient was so bent, his face turned to the ground. He could not look anyone in the face or plead in court.

After the Lorenz operation the patient claimed his condition was far worse. He said it had caused paralysis of both legs as well as of bladder and bowels. Though X-ray pictures showed no lesion of the spine, Lorenz said he felt like a criminal under the bitter reproaches of the lawyer. Under threat of suit Lorenz consented to pay a considerable indemnity, half down and the balance a year later should no improvement ensue in the man's condition.

Reports on the poor lawyer at the end of the year indicated his condition had become chronic. In accordance with his promise, Lorenz paid the second half of the indemnity, and tried to get the memory of the dreadful experience from his mind. Soon after the last payment was made Lorenz was congratulated by a friend of the lawyer. "He is now walking about in a nearly erect attitude," said the friend.

The payment of the indemnity had worked a miraculous cure.

o o o

Lorenz's life, so filled with service to suffering humanity, is all the more inspiring when one remembers that he was born of peasant stock in a little village. He had never seen a railway train, or worn shoes until he was twelve years of age, and left his home in Silesia to seek education. On his way to Vienna, resplendent in new boots and stockings he had to take both boots and stockings off to rest his feet by travelling barefoot. Kings and Queens and multi-millionaires in due course besought him to aid their children. His greatest satisfaction was in treating the poor and bringing into the world a new branch of medical science to abolish club feet and congenital displacement of the hip-joints in children.

A Day in Canadian History —o— By FRED WILLIAMS

Those who study Canadian history with a leaning to sympathy with the Reformers of a century ago will regard today as one on which the power of the Family Compact was riveted upon Upper Canada. It was upon April 2, 1828, that the colonial secretary wrote to Sir John Colborne announcing the appointment of John Beverley Robinson as Chief Justice and of Henry J. Boulton and C. A. Hagerman as attorney general and solicitor general. The trio were the legal instruments of the governors (both Colborne and Head) and it was at them that W. L. Mackenzie fired most of his pointed bullets and verbal assaults. The chief justice was permitted to continue to be both politician and judge; but both Boulton and Hagerman were dismissed by order of the colonial secretary in 1833. Both went to England to protest but the dismissal held, and new officers were sent out. But then came the Mackenzie rebellion. Hagerman was justified; he was reinstated and was the chief prosecutor before Chief Justice Robinson of Lount, Mathews and other political prisoners. Boulton was made chief justice of Newfoundland, but was dismissed five years later. He came back to Toronto and was M.L.A. for Niagara for 10 years. Hagerman certainly had his revenge upon those who had him "fired."

The New Brunswick minister was the victim of a political frame-up; he fell victim to a sensational story published by The Calgary Eye Opener, which was afterwards found untrue; but Mr. Emmerson, like the gentleman he was, preferred to go out rather than submit respectable ladies who had been guests in the private car to publicity and insult in court. He continued in parliament, his character being vindicated.

FARMERS AND DUCKS

Editor, The Bulletin: Re your editorial entitled "Who Is to Pay?"

May I say that I have received as secretary of the Alberta Association over one hundred applications from farmers throughout Alberta for assistance from the monies to be provided, all of which range the raising of more ducks. My files are open for inspection.

It is recognized that damages to crops is an annual affair in the province but on good authority I learn that the total damage does not exceed $10,000 in one year. Too damage is chiefly done by the Mallard. The only other grain-eating duck of any consequence is the Pintail. All other varieties or the diving ducks feed exclusively on aequatic plants found in the sloughs and lakes of this province, hence are not a factor to be reckoned with.

The proposal of "Ducks Unlimited" is briefly to bring back the latter mentioned ducks, namely the Canvasback, the Red Head, the Blue Bill and the green and blue winged Teal which are truly the rough duck and which have practically disappeared. The area which it is proposed to assist is mainly the drought area, which formerly was an important breeding area for the surface breeding ducks as mentioned in paragraph. These ducks do no damage to grain.

"Ducks Unlimited" will function primarily for the following purposes:

(1) To bring back again to their former plentifulness surface feeding ducks.

(2) To build small dams, dikes, ditches, storage reservoirs, snow-collecting fences, water gates and other control works which will ensure the usefulness of the restored areas even during periods of severe drought fall of which will be of economic importance to the farmer in the dried-out areas).

(3) Caring for cover and food plants (introducing desirable species checking undesirable vegetation, controlling grazing and fires).

(4) Carefully looking after the present bird sanctuaries which are claimed to be covered with undesirable vegetation, such as thistles, etc.)

(5) Keeping predators in check, chiefly crows, cats, coyotes and magpies (the farmer's enemies).

(6) Farming to an extent sufficient to keep the upland adjoining waters in good shape and to produce some grain crops for feeding ducks in case of need, and to detract the birds from raiding the farmers' crops.

All of the foregoing will, I am sure, assist farmers to an extent that will cover by far any losses that will result from the increase even of the grain eating ducks.

"Ducks Unlimited" hopes to be able to assist farmers who suffer severe losses to their crops by other methods which can be employed in lessening the losses.

It should be further recognized that the tourist trade in Alberta is one of great importance and, according to the statistics printed by the Dominion Government is recognized as the third largest trade of the Dominion. The safeguarding of our outdoor life by such a method as "Ducks Unlimited" will contribute greatly to the conservation and protection of our wild life and assist in augmenting our economical welfare by larger returns and multiplying any small losses obtained.

Interest Free Homes And Public Services

ages of the total of such services.

It would seem, then, that the safe thing to do would be to accept the facts of the present situation and improve the present system as far as possible. If it be the will of the people that socialization of further services be proceeded with, let it be done gradually as we acquire experience and ability to do so.

My analysis discloses that, under a proper money system, we can definitely draw the line between the private ownership of everything and the common ownership of everything just where the people wish, and that the determining factor can be simply whether the services are financed nationally or privately. If individuals supply the money, then they own the enterprise. If all the people, through their government, supply the money, then the enterprise is owned collectively.

SOLUTION IS SIMPLE

The solution of our problems is so simple as to be staggering. The nation can finance our public works, the homes of the people, and such services as we wish to serve us at cost, such as railway transportation, hydro, etc., at just the cost of issuing and recalling our modern book money, which would be but a fraction of one per cent. per annum, and doing so will not interfere with private profit in the construction of homes and all other enterprises in which we wish to encourage and reward individual initiative.

By issuing money for these purposes through our existing federal, provincial and municipal treasury departments and recalling it, through our taxation departments, on a safe amortization basis, that is, as the specific units for which it is issued depreciate, the cost would be so small that it could be borne in general taxation. This procedure automatically does away with all internal public debt and the mortgages on the homes of the people, yet does not interfere in private productive enterprise, except to the extent that we wish to operate certain public services at cost.

FROM SOUND BASE

An examination of the normal values of our homes, urban or rural, and of our public service institutions, discloses that they form a sound base for sufficient currency for all purposes, including an average reserve of a few hundred dollars for each citizen. Certainly, this class of durable wealth is as sound a base for national book currency as it is for private bonds and mortgages purchased with banker book currency.

This national money would be available for private enterprises. The chartered banks would become exactly what they claim to be; namely, depositories of the peoples' money, and loaning and money transfer agencies. It will be at once apparent that the volume of needed money would keep pace with our progressive national development. As more homes were constructed and public services installed, there would be additional money adequate to the needs of an increasing population. It will also be seen that the issuance of money would thus be directed into channels which would first provide our citizens with their primary needs.

NEVER-FILLED DEMAND

Because of the never-filled demand for housing and public services, and since we have within Canada all materials necessary to provide homes for all, our employment problems under such a money system would become one of finding workers instead of work. All industries would find themselves in a position of having to compete for the purchase, as well as the sale, of services rendered. All worthy services would benefit, because money put into homes goes to the very foundation of the economic structure. Everyone is interested in some service or commodity required in the family home.

And there would be more opportunities for profitable investment, if everyone were employed in some useful capacity. There would be more production, more of everything for the average citizen. There would be more profits, because, in the final analysis, all profits must come out of production anyway.

There can be no defence of the present system of charging monopolistic rates of interest for existing money or for new money being continually created by our banking institutions. Money now in existence belongs to its holders. Let them hoard it, spend it, lend it, it would matter not, under a sound-money system, more than the keeping or use of milk or street car tickets.

ENTITLED TO MONEY

But, all persons who wish to work and provide the needs of themselves and dependents are, as citizens, entitled to a supply of money units with which to exchange the products of their labors, without having to pay private institutions or individuals an exhobitant price for the use of new money or money which represents existing goods.

Our unemployed, in this respect, are isolated from society as much as if they were on an island in mid-Atlantic. In our complex economy they must have a medium of exchange before they can work and exchange the products of their labors, but they cannot pay the exorbitant fee the money monopolists are asking for it.

They cannot pay for their homes and public service institutions and then pay one and more times the real value of such with merely for the use of the book-money through the medium of which the materials and labor used in these structures are exchanged.

MONEY CONTROL

But, as I told you earlier in this series, cunning men discovered that in our advanced economy they no longer needed physical control over fertile lands and of men in order to exert power over all mankind. They discovered that such power could be made absolute through the control of needed money.

It is a recognized policy of the money barons to keep money scarce, to the point that there will be a surplus of labor. Then labor will subdue itself by cutting its own throat; then a percentage of the population will be willing to do almost anything in order to exist.

What seems so remarkable to me is that so many of our people now know this situation to exist. They now know that our present money system is the key to the economic prison in which they are incarcerated, yet they will not take time to think through the fact that it is only the right of issue and recall of needed money that gives individuals power over the economic lives of the people and of all wealth.

Our socialist and C.C.F. friends know of the exercise of that power and they are determined to take over the control of banking and credit as well as of issuing and recalling money. The socialists are consistent, in that they would socialize all services.

Our C.C.F. friends have yet to learn that to socialize banking without socializing all services would make the control of credit for private industry the liveliest political football ever invented.

POLITICIAN-PROOF

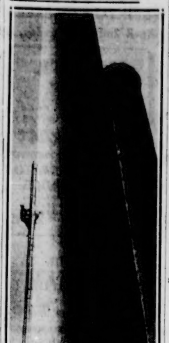

The system of issuing money only for homes and for public service institutions and such enterprises as the people wish to serve them at cost, would be politician-proof. No governing body would build more homes than there were families to occupy them, nor more schools than there were children to attend them, nor more hospitals than there were sick people to care for. But, if a governing body had authority to issue money to Tom, Dick and Harry for private enterprises, everyone would want to start in business. No one would work for another.

The public control of credit for private enterprises, except as to an adequate volume in channels of essential activities, is paradoxical—in fact doesn't make sense—because credit or money is the evidence of the ownership of capital. If the public controls the unit means of production, how can we have private productive enterprises?

There is a simple solution to our economic problems. It lies in the restoration to the nation of the authority for the issuance and recall of a sufficient volume of the modern book-money we have evolved, and in the direction of such issuance into activities which are essential to the well-being of all classes of citizens. The line between the common ownership of units of wealth on which we do not wish to pay individuals a profit by way of interest, or otherwise, and the private ownership of the means of such production on which we are willing to pay profits as a reward of initiative, can be clearly drawn. And it can be re-drawn from time-to-time by the mere monetizing of any services we may wish to remove from the fields of private enterprise.

The only objection I have so far had to this plan was made by the Ontario minister of labor. He said, "there must be something wrong with it; it's too damned logical."

Stack of Work

So far so good, but how's Dave Woods, daring steeple-jack, going to get the rest of the way up that 285-foot chimney? However, it's not quite as impossible as it looks, for he'll use the same method that got him as high in the world as he is—by pulling up and fastening to the chimney 10-foot sections of ladder. He made the hazardous ascent at Washington, D.C., to repair a disabled lightning rod.

COMPENSATION BILL CHANGE IS ADVANCED

Unwin Told Government Inquiry Not Yet Determined

Second reading was given Thursday to the amending bill to the Workmen's Compensation Act, Accident Fund, which empowers the Compensation Board to differentiate in its levies between one employer and other employers in the same class, having regard to the difference in the accident cost or accident hazard. The bill is being piloted by the attorney general.

Second reading was given with little discussion.

The bill also empowers the board to administer such acts and perform such duties as may be assigned to it by order-in-council.

At the request of Gerald O'Connor, Liberal, Edmonton, Hon. Mr. Hugill further explained the bill.

WAGE ESTIMATE

"It provides that the estimate of wages upon an application to come under the compensation fund shall be for the current year and balance thereof instead of the ensuing year.

Provision is made for the appointment of a panel of 40 doctors and for the appointment out of that panel, of medical boards to advise in cases referred to them by the compensation board.

The age of children of deceased workmen in respect of whom compensation may be paid is raised from 16 to 18, and provision is made for compensation in case of disfigurement.

J. H. Unwin, S.C., Edson, and government whip, asked if it was the intention of the government this year to set up a commission to review the Compensation Act. He said such revision was promised last year.

Mr. Hugill replied that this would be a consideration of the government. It was proposed to have an inquiry, the nature of which had not yet been determined.

Mr. Unwin was satisfied.

Fred Anderson, S.C., Calgary, then interposed that he remembered some similar assurance being given a year ago and no action being taken.

Second reading was then given.

BILLS SPEEDED THROUGH HOUSE IN QUIET MEET

The legislature in an uneventful sitting on Thursday, sped through a volume of legislation and paved the way for adjournment not later than the middle of next week.

The house progressed two bills to third reading, the bill to amend the Factories Act of 1926, piloted by Hon. W. A. Fallow, and the bill to consolidate the Employment Office Act.

The house also reported progress on two other bills, one being the amending bill to the School Act, and the other respecting the right of employees to organize and to enter into collective bargaining.

Second reading was given to three bills, that "desperate mentally incompetent persons and their estates; one to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act, (Accident Fund) and one to amend and consolidate the Co-Operative Associations Act.

Four more new bills were introduced into the house, these being amending bill to the Jointure Act, amending bill to The Societies Act; bill providing for the Taxation of Land held under Grazing Leases and a bill to Amend and Consolidate the Local Authorities Borrowings Guarantee Act.

No Traffic Deaths During Past Month

Highlight of the figures released by police headquarters for the month of March showed that there had been no fatalities as a result of traffic accidents during the month and a decrease in the number of accidents as compared with March last year. In March, 1936, there were 96 traffic accidents with one fatality, while this year there were 49 accidents with no fatalities.

Fire alarms in March this year totalled 77 as compared to 44 last year. Arrests this year 92, last year 91. Summonses, this year 57, last year 75. Inquests last year 6, this year 2.

Burble Cut Out

The propeller isn't broken, it's built with one blade on the flivver plane shown above with Lieut. Arthur S. Pierce, just after landing in Chicago on a cross-country test flight. Inventor W W Everts, Baltimore, claims this blade eliminates the backwash "burble" of two-blade propellers, is more efficient.

World's Handsomest - She Says

Ranking the 10, who in her opinion, constitute the world's most handsome men, beautiful blonde Madeleine Carroll, British screen star, missed completely the masculine element of Hollywood and didn't give the world's younger element a "tumble." Top three in Miss Carroll's album are President Franklin D. Roosevelt of United States, No. 1; George Bernard Shaw, Irish playwright, No. 2, and England's foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, No. 3 Explaining her selections, Miss Carroll asserted that she considered few young men handsome. Mere good looks do not score in her ratings. Miss Carroll classing handsome men as those who "have reached their goal through effort that tries courage and develops intellect." Miss Carroll is at top left; Mr. Eden also at top, with Mr. Shaw and Mr. Roosevelt, left to right, below.

Radio Racket Under Patent Plan Revealed

OTTAWA, April 2—Patent rights on radio and electrical appliances are being abused and used as a super-tariff by patent-holders, the house of commons heard yesterday as it considered the new Combines Investigations Act in committee of the whole.

Slow progress was made with the bill as Conservative members objected to many details, particularly the transfer of the administration of the act from the trade and industry commission to a commissioner in the labor department.

PATENT RIGHTS

H. H. Stevens (Recon. Kootenay East) raised the question of electrical apparatus. He said companies were using their patent rights to exclude low-priced goods from Canada. In some cases appliances could be brought in from the United States duty-paid and sold for 50 per cent less than Canadian prices but for the patent-holders' combine.

Because of treaty obligations it was impossible to change the Patent Act but provision could be made in the new Combines Act for investigation of patent abuses and prosecutions under the act.

W. K. Esling (Cons. Kootenay West) described a similar situation in the radio field. A combine controlled all radio patents and in some cases radios in Canada sold for 100 per cent more than the same sets in the United States.

In addition the patent combine set out to harass and threaten Canadians who imported radios from the United States under the $100 tourists exemption from customs duties.

Conservative members, led by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, their leader, question the wisdom of putting the work of combine investigation under a commissioner who would not have the wide experience and training possessed by members of the tariff board now in charge in their dual capacity as members of the trade and industry commission.

Broadcast From Speeding C. N. Train Saturday

Special to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, April 2.—The first national broadcast to be made from a speeding train in Canada will be put on the air by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Saturday night from 9:30 to 10 o'clock eastern standard time.

The broadcast will be made from the Continental Limited, the crack Montreal-Vancouver train of the C.N.R. and will be one of the "night shift" series which have been carried weekly by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and which have aroused widespread interest throughout the Dominion.

COAST TO COAST

There will be 42 C.B.C. stations in the hook-up which will extend from Sydney, N.S., to Vancouver, B.C., for the purpose of the broadcast special short wave transmitting sets have been installed at Limoges, Ont., and in a car which will be attached to the train. A special stop will be made at the Limoges station where R. T. Bowman, the commentator in charge of the broadcast, will interview the engineer and fireman.

TALK TO PASSENGERS

He will then board the train and the remainder of the broadcast will be transmitted from the train while enroute to Ottawa and will include interviews with various members of the train crew and with passengers. The transmitters at Limoges and on the train will send the broadcast to CRCO at Ottawa which station will relay it over the national chain of stations.

Donald Cameron Is Study Group Speaker

The place of co-operation in modern life was analyzed by Donald Cameron, of the University of Alberta extension department, in addressing the Liberal Study Group Thursday in the McLeod building. He cited the progress of European countries that have adopted the new spirit, contrasting it with the discord and strife of a competitive society. But he warned that there were many grave drawbacks to the co-operative state, drawbacks that prevented it from being a panacea for social ills.

SCHOOL BILL ADVANCED IN LEGISLATURE

Premier Thinks Time Ill Spent as Information is But Little

Designed to encourage formation and operation of larger school units; the fusion of several school districts as now constituted into larger areas, the amending bill to the School Act, which Premier Aberhart is sponsoring was discussed Thursday and reported as "progressed" with further discussion to come later.

R. E. Manley, S.C., Redvue, pointed out that it was well known that school fees did not cover the average cost of pupils education.

D. M. Duggan, Conservative leader, asked if the time was not opportune for the Premier to tell briefly as to the success of the unit system.

HIGH LIGHTS

"In other words," said Mr. Duggan, "tell us in one of your brief speeches, the high lights of the unit system."

"I do not think," Premier Aberhart said, "that we should take the time of this house in going into this. We really have not had the time yet because there has been hardly a year since we had the units formed. There are 11 units running. The fact that the trustees at their last convention, were much changed in their opinion showed that the influence is spreading nicely.

"The trustees are praising it very highly," he said. "It is going to help the efficiency of the supervision and it is going to help the children to get a broader education, more on a par with the city schools.

SAVE MONEY

"I feel in time that there will be probably a saving in money also. However, it is not so much to save money as to try to improve the type of education in the country districts."

With little more discussion, progress was reported.

The broadcast will be the first for the General Motors series at the new time on the Blue network. The program will be broadcast from Carnegie hall. Concert music ranging from the elegiac strains of Bach's chorale "Mein Jesu" to the modern atonalities of Debussy's "Moonlight" will characterize the program of the Philadelphia Orchestra under the direction of Leopold Stokowski, over the nation-wide WABC-Columbia network Friday, April 2, from 8:00 to 8:30 p.m., Edmonton time.

Bach's chorale will be the first selection played, to be followed by Brahms' Hungarian Dance in G Minor. Tschaikowsky's familiar "Solitude" will be heard, then Debussy's "Moonlight," and in conclusion the orchestra will play the stirring "Racoczy March" of Berlioz. Stokowski himself will introduce the selections with informal remarks concerning the music. The author and psychologist, Walter B. Pitkin, will speak during the intermission on a subject of timely interest. The broadcast will originate from the auditorium of the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia.

BULLDOZING CREEPS INTO LOAN DEBATE

Gerry McGeer of Vancouver Ruled Out and Lets 'Em Know It

OTTAWA, April 2.—Chairman of the tempestuous House Banking Committee of Commons, W. H. Moore (Lib., Ontario), had an opportunity last night to cast the deciding vote when his ruling was challenged. Naturally he voted his ruling had been an excellent one.

G. G. McGeer (Vancouver-Burrard), discussing the Central Finance Corporation bill, asked that the justice department be requested to express an opinion on the effect of some of the clauses.

He was ruled out of order and Mr. Moore said "if you do not like my ruling you can appeal it."

AND HE DID

"Well, I certainly do."

The first vote was a standing one and the clerk said it was a tie. The chairman then voted, sustaining his ruling.

Claiming the count had not been correct, W. A. Tucker (Lib., Northern) asked for a recorded vote.

There was some dismay as the members had been walking around and no one was quite sure which side had the advantage.

"There is no right for a recorded vote now," shouted Paul Martin (Lib., Essex East) when Mr. Tucker was insisting on it. "I can bulldoze as well as anyone else."

STRIKES TABLE

"I resent that," exclaimed Mr. Tucker, and he hit the table with a resounding blow. "I have taken all I am going to take in this committee and I demand Mr. Martin withdraw bulldozing."

"I withdraw, but I still think I can bulldoze as well as anyone."

By this time Sam Jacobs (Lib., Cartier) entered the room and a recorded vote in which Mr. Jacobs voted for the Speaker again resulted in a tie and Mr. Moore said he most certainly sustained the Speaker.

EAST ASSAILED ON TARIFF IN REGINA HOUSE

REGINA, April 2.—The tariff question was revived in the Saskatchewan legislature by J. A. Gregory (Lib., the Battlefords) as he demanded for Western Canada some form of protection to offset the "specially privileged manufacturers of eastern Canada."

He was speaking in the debate on a resolution calling for marketing of the 1937 wheat crop by the federal wheat board if the Turgeon report was not down in time for its recommendations to be implemented this session.

Last night the budget debate was continued, with J. D. MacFarlane (Lib., Melfort) suggesting the government might overcome expense of constructing a highway from Nipawin in northern Saskatchewan to Flin Flon by establishing a toll road.

Grand Jury On Sit-Down Strike Fired By Judge

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2. — A "sit-down strike" of a grand jury—probing charges police were paid $1,000,000 annually to protect vice and gambling—was answered today by summary dismissal.

"Neither this jury nor any other can 'sit down' on the public interests of San Francisco," Superior Judge George Steiger was quoted as saying in a story copyrighted by the Chronicle.

Judge Steiger held the jurors were in contempt of court when they refused to appear before him to discuss the advisability of their continuing as investigators. The jury sat placidly in its own chambers for an hour.

Third Victim Dies

OTTAWA, April 2.—Almo Summers, 39, died in hospital here last night, bringing to three the number of dead as a result of accident near Winchester, Ont., Thursday, involving a truck and several automobiles in a funeral procession.

THE Royal Road TO THE CORONATION

TODAY we present His Majesty as an officer in the Royal Air Force, as well as in the uniform of an active officer during the war years. Though the then Prince Albert entered the flying arm of the fighting forces only after ill-health forced him from the seas he had come to love, no more enthusiastic recruit ever sought his wings."

In February of 1918, with the struggle in France still dragging on but with mighty strides taking place in the development of aviation, Prince Albert became a "birdman" recruit. Perhaps to rid themselves of the persistent seeker after war jobs, since the navy was barred to him after his serious operation of 1917, the high command assigned the prince to the royal naval air station at Cranwell where he was to learn something about the flying arm of the navy in which he once had served.

He welcomed the opportunity to again be working among men who knew the navy and its language, even if their interests were in different spheres, but with the exigencies of war the naval flying branch was soon amalgamated with the army wing, the royal flying corps, to become the Royal Air Force. Prince Albert moved into the R.A.F. with the rank of captain. The war was soon to end, but before the armistice was signed, the flying prince had managed to work his way into active service, as he had in the navy, serving with Sir Hugh Trenchard's staff in France with headquarters at Nancy.

Then with characteristic thoroughness he plunged into post-war activity working at the air ministry in London, and amassing in the course of a few months an amazing knowledge of government departmental routine as well as added flying theory.

In July of 1919 he won his pilot's license; in August he was named a squadron leader of the R.A.F. and later in the same summer he bade a final farewell to active branches of both the navy and the R.A.F. The press of public duties which were making it increasingly necessary to devote his time to official work, forced the change. Then to him, as to hundreds of other officers, came the necessity of leaving the service, and plunging into the job of rehabilitating a war-tired world.

TIME NOT RIPE FOR DISARMING DAVIS DECLARES

LONDON, April 2.—Norman H. Davis, U.S. ambassador-at-large, said today he will discuss world economics and peace co-operation with British statesmen, but that the time is not yet ripe for an international disarmament conference.

Tension created by the Spanish civil war and widespread suspicion in the European mind made disarmament impracticable now, he asserted.

GENERAL REACTION

His disavowal of any United States intention to propose an armament conference now coincided with that of Secretary of State Cordell Hull in Washington.

It came, too, after general reaction in European capitals against such a conference at this time, a stepping-up of Franco-British aerial armamentis and new efforts by those two nations to settle the question of foreign volunteers in Spain.

An apparent softening of the Italo-German attitude inspired France and Britain to urge action that non-Spanish fighters be withdrawn from the Spanish civil war.

A French foreign office spokesman avowed the government "is more optimistic that the Spanish war will not entangle Europe than at any time since the war began."

An effective neutrality control scheme will be in operation within 10 days, both French and British scurces predicted.

Some French officials anticipated withdrawal of foreigners in Spain, but felt Italians in the insurgent army might attempt one more offensive before agreeing to go back home.

Davis noted a slight relaxation in the Spanish tension and added his view that the civil war had "a sobering influence" on all Europe.

Here for the international sugar conference opening Monday, Davis said he intended to discuss all matters pertaining to key points in American foreign policy; economic co-operation, peace, disarmament.

Great Losses Feared, Turned To Neat Profit

British United Press

LONDON, April 2.—British manufacturers, who four months ago feared they would have to bear crippling losses because of the abdication of King Edward VIII, are now smiling happily. The demand for King Edward souvenirs from all parts of the world has been greater than anybody dared to forecast.

Though inquiries on the point are generally discouraged, it is learned that thousands of souvenirs bearing the ex-King's head and with such wording as "Crowned May 12, 1937," have been turned out since the abdication. The readiness of the public here, in many parts of the Empire and in the United States to buy Edward VIII souvenirs has, in fact, already conferred a scarcity-value on some of them.

NAZI CANINES SPOT WINDOR'S DOG; FIGHT HIM

ST. WOLFGANG, Austria, April 2.—The Duke of Windsor is having trouble again protecting his dog.

He returned to his lakeside retreat after a six-mile walk today just in time to rescue his new Cairn Terrier, "Schnupf," two German Shepherd dogs were getting the best of the small dog.

But it was an old story to the Duke, who had to send his first Cairn, Slippers, back to England after Baron Eu Rothschild's dogs chewed him up during the stay at Enzesfeld.

The Duke drove to St. Gilgen, dismissed his car and walked home today, exchanging the customary "God Bless You" with his Austrian neighbors.

A grey riding coat, grey knickers, wool socks and blue turtle-neck sweater comprised the Duke's hiking costume.

Must Die

SUTTON, W. Va., April 2.—A jury convicted 23-year-old William Read Thursday of the torch slaying of Earle Dollman. July 9 was set for his execution.

STALIN HOLDS DEATH SENTENCE FOR BOLSHEVISTS

MOSCOW, April 2—Joseph Stalin called upon Russia today for "merciless" extermination of all Bolshevist enemies in what was interpreted as a virtual death sentence for hundreds under arrest as counter revolutionaries.

The demand of the Soviet leader, made in the Kremlin March 5 before the central committee of the Communist party, was published today.

"I think it is clear," Stalin declared, "that the present wreckers and diversionists have become simply an unprincipled and idealless band of professional wreckers, diversionists, spies and murderers."

HENRY BIRKS & SONS, LIMITED
DIAMOND MERCHANTS

Claims Country Life Ruined By Auto and Radio

SYDNEY, N.S., April 2—This age of automobiles and radios has done away with many old community customs in the Scottish country districts of Cape Breton, old timers declare.

Before automobiles and radios arrived in the highlands of Cape Breton gatherings took place once a week or oftener, and some time was spent in conversation, everything from the latest arrival in the barnyard to world events, being discussed. "Now people hop into their cars and go to a movie, while others stay home and listen to the radio," Donald McDonald, farmer at St. Georges River pines.

"In the old days parties would be held once a week," the 86-year-old farmer said. "There would be a champion story teller, singer and fiddler. First on the program came the stories, some of which were made up by the narrator as he went along and some of which had been handed down by word of mouth from generation to generation for many years. These stories were generally of ghosts, omens and signs, deeds of strength and skill."

The people who sang solos, always sang in Gaelic. The songs were generally made up of harmless skits about one or more of those present. Some would have as many as 20 or 30 verses, according to the ability of the singer to make them up, he said.

"Then came the fiddlers and what some of those fellows could do with a violin was nobody's business. Of a sudden there would be a whoop, and a lad would jump to the floor and start 'stepping her off.' He wouldn't be there long before joined by several more. Then would ensue an exhibition of step-dancing that would make the modern tap dancer look very awkward to say the least," McDonald said.

This would go on for some time, and then came the crowning event of the evening—refreshments, the farmer said. "Home made bread, home made butter and cheese, cream, milk, home cured ham and potted head, and jellies, made up a course of good eats that would make any epicure drool," he exclaimed.

"But now the automobiles and radios have come," said McDonald, with a wistful sigh. "If these gatherings could be revived it would be for the betterment of the country."

HAMILTON, Ont., April 2.—William McGregor Logan, grand secretary of the Grand Lodge of Ontario, A.F. and A.M., died here today. He was considered the best-known mason in Canada. At University of Toronto he was a gold medalist in classics in 1885.

Wooden Legs Are Found But Owner Missing

PITTSBURGH, April 2.—The police found Joe Shobe's wooden legs. Now they can't find Joe.

Shobe wrote to Pittsburgh police asking them to go to a certain address and pick up his legs. An officer obliged.

All police know is that Shobe lives in Akron, Ohio, and they hesitate to send the package general delivery.

Famed Spanish Dance Teacher Dies

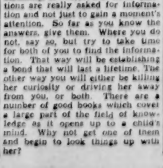

BARCELONA, Spain, April 2—Senora Pamies, 67, ballet mistress of the Barcelona opera and one of Spain's most famous dancing teachers, died here today after an attack of bronchitis.

During her 62 years with the Barcelona opera, Senora Pamies numbered among her pupils the celebrated La Argentina. Anna Pavlova, perhaps the most famous of ballerinas, took lessons from her on the characteristic Spanish dances.

Girl Friend Was Scout's Undoing

EL PASO, Texas, April 2—Sheriff Chris Fox said today Robert M. Miller, 23, Safford, Ariz., scout executive, told him a "quarrel with a girl friend" moved him to disappear for a week during which he was sought widely as a kidnap victim. Miller appeared yesterday and told officers he had been the captive of kidnappers in a desert adobe hut.

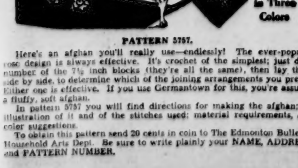

What To Do

I read your column every evening and find it very helpful, so I am writing to ask if you can offer any suggestions to help me with my problem? My little girl is just at the inquisitive age and almost drives me to distraction with her constant questions. All day long I hear—"Mother, why is this and why is that?" Just how can I break her of this habit? MRS. W. C. M.

Answer—I know it is trying, but the worst thing you can do for your little girl is to try to break her of asking the "why" of things. I am assuming, of course, that these questions are provoked for information and not just to gain a moment's attention. So far as you know the answers give them. Where you do not, say so, but try to take time for both of you to find the information. In that way will be established a bond that will last a lifetime. The other way you will either be killing her curiosity or driving her away from you, or both. There are a number of good books which cover a large part of the field of knowledge as it opens up to a child's mind. Why not get one of them and begin to look things up with her?

Directing Colorful Operetta

MRS. J. B. CARMICHAEL

charming and talented leader of the Edmonton Operatic Society, who has loaned her skill as a musician and director to the latest performance of the society, The Red Mill, which will be presented at the Empire theatre on Friday and Saturday evenings. A special matinee performance has been arranged for Saturday afternoon.

Civic Opera Society To Do The Red Mill

". . . And the beautiful princess Wilhelmina was locked forever in the haunted castle." So the legend that inspired the colorful opera, The Red Mill or "Moulin Rouge" as the French say, goes . . . but in light-opera land the story always has a happy ending, and so the princess is rescued from the castle and marries . . . well, I guess you know who . . . the prince . . . you're right!

PRETTY BACKGROUND

Against a background of Holland skies, blue and smiling, are etched the gigantic arms of the windmills, and across the lovely-hued countryside are seen the numerous dykes and the quaint homes of the people —all this is a picturesque setting for the presentation on Friday and Saturday evening in the Empire theatre of "The Red Mill" by members of the Edmonton Civic Opera Society.

Music by Victor Herbert . . . words by Victor Herbert . . . all that's necessary for the perfect entertainment. Under the capable baton of Mrs. J. B. Carmichael who has made the providing of good music, singing and performance her all-in-one task, the production promises to be one of the most enjoyable of musical pieces for a long time.

The curtain is scheduled to rise at a quarter past eight o'clock.

Mr. John Rule is dramatic director of the play, and Mr. Ralph Couper of the chorus. Miss Dorothy Kinney has charge of the arrangement of the ballet.

TWO CASTS

Personnel of the cast includes, for Friday evening and Saturday matinee: Mr. Charles Sweetlove, Mr. Robert Ratcliffe, Mr. R. J. Eby, Mr. Norman Taylor, Mr. Alex McIntosh, Mr. Robert Shaw, Mr. Stuart Carson, Mr. Laurier Picard, Miss Betty Cunningham, Miss Irene Perez, Miss Betty Shaw, Miss Berengere Mercier.

Saturday evening performers include Mr. Charles Sweetlove, Mr. Robert Ratcliffe, Mr. R. J. Eby, Mr. Norman Taylor, Mr. Wally Young, Mr. Earle Davidson, Mr. Frank Williams, Miss Irene Campbell, Miss Rebecca Gloekzin, Miss Doris Hicks, and Miss Edith Rocque.

They Walk In Beauty . . . .

Summing up the mode and its trends, as shown in dresses and suits for the Easter parade, it seems that it is not so much the styles that make garments seem different this season. It is the originality of the details.

There are so many intriguing little tricks that "make" dresses and suits. Stylists seem to have used unlimited ingenuity and originality to achieve this end.

The boleros, those tiny, pert jackets of romantic tradition, are a picturesque part of spring fashions. The new navy sheer dress shown here at the right, has a bolero front edged with a band of red and white polka dotted silk wound with navy blue.

The blouse is of matching red and white silk, and the waist is marked by a crushed belt. The plain skirt has a slight flare. With this dress are worn a small navy blue hat, which has an amusing grosgrain antennae, and classic pumps of navy blue kidskin.

Beige spring's own favorite, is the color of the handsome thin wool frock, left. The skirt is released from the laut, draped waist in gently flaring lines. The inspired touches are the black chiffon kerchief fastened on to the left side of the chest, and the black patent leather belt.

The new "baby" kerct of shiny black milan and the high-cut empire sandals of black kidskin, prove the alliance of beige and black one of the smartest of the season.

500 Present At Victoria High School Dance

All the happy comradeship of the days when they shouted lustily for their school teams under waving pennants of red and black marked the party at which more than 500 students and ex-students of Victoria High School gathered in the Tivoli ballroom on Thursday evening.

Interlaced mauve and yellow streamers formed a lacy canopy over the heads of the colorfully gowned dancers.

Graciously welcoming the guests were the patronesses, Miss Kathleen Tookey, Mrs. J. K. Hill and Mrs. G. W. G. McConachie, several members of the teaching staff and the central committee, which was comprised of Mr. George Cook, and Mr. Herbert Allen, members of the Alumni Association and Miss Cathryn Zender. Miss Helen Love, Mr. Gordon Budton and Mr. Lorne Mc-Burney, members of the Students' Union of the school.

M. Kretchman Wins Draw "Live Twins"

Attended by a large number of citizens, the first annual dance of the Edmonton Association of Musicians, branch of the Canadian Federation of Musicians, held Thursday night in the Memorial Hall, was an outstanding success.

Mr. Darrell Robertson, as master of ceremonies, presented to the winner of a lucky draw a pair of "real, live baby twins." Mr. Kretchman was the winner but there was an April Fool catch to it. The twins were a pair chirping, downy, baby chicks. The draw was made by E. T. Richardson, president of the Musicians' Association.

Thirty of Edmonton's musicians supplied dance rhythms, with three orchestras working in shifts, led by Leo Roberts, Russell Jackniznky and Norris Pacey.

Pile Troubles Quickly Helped

The very first sign of piles, rectal soreness, itching irritation or plenty stool, may be nature's warning to you that immediate attention should be given to your condition, to prevent serious trouble later. Neglect of piles may have serious and expensive consequences.

For over 25 years, Dr. Leonhardt's famous prescription, Hem-Roid, has been giving quick and satisfying results in relieving the misery of piles. What it has done for others it should do for you. Hem-Roid is used internally, and is especially helpful to relieve the blood congestion to the lower bowel, which is a cause of piles. Easy and pleasant to use, good results are quickly noted. All drug stores carry Hem-Roid. Your money back if it doesn't help you. Merrick Drug Stores can supply you.

Among the lovely weddings planned for late May is that of Edna Verona Dare, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dare of Edmonton and Mr. Johns Smith, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Smith of Edmonton, whose engagement was announced today.

the social round . . . . .

CINDERELLA seems to have it all her own way—with children at any rate—for among the little crayon drawings made during the Saturday mornings of the winter by the class sponsored by the Edmonton Museum of Arts, she appears often . . . Cinderella being danced with by the prince, scorning her three unattractive sisters with a powerful look . . . Cinderella rushing out at the stroke of midnight . . . Cinderella finding the glass shoe to fit. A story, an incident, an unfamiliar country explained to these kiddies, and their impressions made graphically on the medium of paper, with pencil, pen or crayon—that is how the class works.

On the Farm, Hallowe'en, Christmas, Easter, each with their attendant pictures, make the grouping of the exhibition now being shown in the museum rooms easy to follow.

Clay work is popular with the kiddies—and remarkable results are obtained from their study of faces of children, little book ends, little scenes in the play ground or in the country, figures of boys and girls and salamanders, all show the clever way the child has coped with the limitations of his medium.

Slacks May Be Worn In Office, Home

Slacks, which made Marlene Dietrich a sensation some time ago, soon will be seen in every office and home, if fashion designers have their way, say recent reports from fashion centers.

Slacks as trim and tailored as the boss's smartest suit, featured a preview of spring fashions staged for buyers from all over the west and middle west in Chicago.

Natty coats and trousers were in flannels, worsteds, gabardines and cottons.

The idea of slacks for the business woman and the businesslike housewife originated in Hollywood, designers said, where a newcomer sometimes is hard put to distinguish men from women on the streets.

GABARDINE

A gray slack suit of herringbone weave, in gabardine, smartly tailored and trimmed in navy blue buttons, was modeled for the inspiration and guidance of the well dressed stenographer of the not very distant future. With it she wore a tailored blue linen shirt.

A double-breasted Eleanor blue flannel suit of daintier lines but strictly mannish in tailoring details, was designed for home wear, shopping or afternoon calls. A dark blue flannel blouse was worn under the trim coat.

Ties and studs completed the outfit. So far no designer has brought to add veils and suspenders.

For women who must be feminine even in slacks, designers showed a pink creation, trousers and a lounge coat of heavy, synthetic material. Sleeves were loose and graceful and lapels were wide and flattering. Just the things, stylists pointed out, for tea, or dinner at home.

PLAY SUITS

For the office girl or busy housewife in a playful mood designers created a "playsuit" of gaudy yellow chintz covered with designs of ships, maps, bales and mountains. Under this she wears a sunsuit of bright red pique.

Another "play suit" of waffle weave yellow cotton had a coat which quickly turned the outfit into a hostess costume. The long coat, with puffy sleeves and flowing skirt, was made of black and white figured material in a wild, floral design.

Dresses, when designers condescend to show them, had all kinds of gadgetry trimmings, from small corks which go up and down as buttons on a blue linen outfit, to enormous cable cords which brought together the collar of a natural-color homespun frock. A flower blue lace frock had tiny peasant bands of black and white in the bell. A white linen suit was buttoned with a row of lipsticks.

Can't Quicken Growth Of Hair, Says Beauty

By GLADYS GLAD

Historians tell us that back in the Stone Age, long hair was almost universally worn by women. In those days, however, long hair was adopted not because it was fashionable, but because it was prescribed by law and custom. The cave-men of that era, it seems, held their women by the hair when they wished to chastise them and demonstrate their own superiority. Thus, long hair was a badge of women's servitude to that two-legged creature, man. But that was back in the Stone Age.

It is not so nowadays, of course. If a man grabbed a girl by the hair in this day and age, she'd probably give him a neat little right to the chin and make him wish that he'd been more prudent, and she'd be perfectly right. Women no longer are the inferior, ignorant, helpless beings that they were in the Stone Age.

However, while long hair today may not be an emblem of woman's dependence upon the male, it is a distinct indication of femininity. For while women are independent and intelligent individuals nowadays, they still want to retain their loveliness and appeal. Despite the fact that many of the new spring hair styles are bobbed, there still are quite a number of girls who are intent upon acquiring long hair.

The most distressing part of the whole business, however, seems to be the slow rate of speed at which the hair grows. What the hair-growing women would like is some sort of preperation that would transform their locks from bobbed to long hair virtually overnight; but, unfortunately, there isn't any such mixture. The girl who would acquire long hair must have patience, for it takes some time for bobbed hair to grow long enough to put up.

CUTTING NO HELP

Some women have the idea that they can speed up the growth of their hair by cutting the ends frequently, but there is no truth at all in this assumption. The hair, you know, grows from the hair follicles in the scalp, and not from the hair ends. And cutting the ends, therefore, does not in the least influence the rate of speed of hair growth.

The average, normally healthy head of hair usually grows at the speed of about seven or eight inches a year. If your hair grows at this rate, there is not much you can do to hasten its growth. If, how, ver, your hair grows more slowly, you can help to speed up its growth to a certain extent; not by cutting the ends, but by treating the hair follicles and the scalp.

MARGOT GRAHAME
Wears hair fairly long.

in order to put them in the healthiest possible condition.

In the first place, brush the hair faithfully, to stimulate the circulation in the scalp. A good, brisk circulation through the scalp is one of the grandest of hair tonics, you know. In the second place, a nightly scalp massage is helpful to free the scalp from the skull, and to keep the blood flowing briskly. And in the third place, the hair should be given hot oil treatments to nourish the hair follicles and the scalp.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Eyelashes

Janet: Apply a bit of plain vaseline or odorless castor oil to your eyelashes nightly before retiring. This will help to make them longer and thicker.

Figure

Helen: Your constipation may be a cause of your excess weight. Diet and exercise will correct this.

CARING FOR LINOLEUM

By Roger B. Whitman

Question.—I have just had an expensive grade of inlaid linoleum put down in my kitchen. It was cemented down over felt. How should I take care of it so that it will keep on looking fresh and new?

Answer.—In the first place, do not clean it with ordinary soap; especially kitchen or laundry soap or scrubbing soap. Inlaid linoleum is ruined by using soap. Instead, after having swept and dusted the floor, wash it with the suds of a pure and neutral soap or of a soap made of linseed oil; follow with a clean cloth damp with clear water and immediately wipe dry. Water is damaging to linoleum. Do not flood the floor with water, for it would work through the cracks and loosen the cement.

The most usual finish for linoleum is paste wax in thin coats, well polished, or a kind of liquid wax that dries in twenty minutes or so with a bright surface. When wear begins to show, put on more wax.

Linoleum can be protected with a special kind of lacquer, or with a kind of varnish that can be wiped on with a cloth. Before applying these, all traces of wax and grease should be removed.

PLASTIC PAINT

Question.—I read in an article about a living-room, that the walls are finished with plastic paint. Please tell me what this is.

Answer.—Plastic paint is a thick mixture of plaster, portland cement, white lead, or other ingredients. It is mixed thicker than thick cream, but it is so smooth that it can be put on ¼ inch thick or so with a whitewash brush. It can also be applied with a trowel. Before it hardens, it is given a texture of one of many methods; by pulling it into points, with a brush and then smoothing the points down with a piece of metal, wood or celuloid, by markings with the fingers, a brush, a comb, or some other tool. Another favorite finish is to rub it with the hand to bring it to an uneven wavy-lines. Another usual finish is to mark it with lines to imitate stonework. The mixture can be colored, or after hardening, can be painted or stippled.

Appetite In Dumps? Try A Dumpling Pie

Dumplings make the heart grow fonder. And when used in a dumpling veal pot pie, they're the last word in goodness.

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

In every man's heart lies a secret spot which nothing can fill but a dumpling. Ladies in love, take this advice—

DUMPLING POT PIE

(4 to 6 servings)

Two cups veal broth, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon onion salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 cup cooked veal, chopped, ¾ cup raw potatoes, sliced very thin.

Mix 2 tablespoons flour with a few tablespoons cold veal broth. Bring the remaining veal broth to boiling point, then add the flour mixture, stirring constantly to avoid lumping. Use a 1½ quart heat resistant glass saucepan. Boil for 5 minutes until flour is well mixed with broth. Add salt, onion salt and pepper. Add potatoes, then chopped veal. Bring slowly back to boiling point.

DUMPLING BATTER

One cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-3 cup milk.

Sift dry ingredients, cut in butter. Add milk and mix well. Drop by rounding teaspoons into gently boiling broth. Cover tightly and continue to cook over very slow flame for 20 minutes without removing cover. Serve at table in same dish—and serve immediately.

CHEESE DUMPLINGS IN TOMATO SAUCE

(4 to 6 servings)

One can tomato soup, 1 cup water, 1 bay leaf, 3 whole cloves.

Heat ingredients together in 1½ quart glass saucepan.

DUMPLING DOUGH

One cup prepared biscuit flour, ½ cup grated American cheese, 1 tablespoon grated onion, about 1-3 cup milk.

Lightly mix together the prepared biscuit flour, cheese, onion and enough milk to make a soft dough. Remove bay leaf and cloves from hot soup. Drop dumpling mixture into gently boiling soup by rounded teaspoons. Cover tightly and cook over very slow flame for 20 minutes. DO NOT REMOVE COVER during this time. Serve from flame and serve immediately in the glass saucepan.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST — Grapefruit sections, baked eggs in cups with bacon curls, Danish pastry, coffee, milk.

DINNER—Cold fresh asparagus, vinaigrette sauce, dumpling pot pie, spinach timbales, buttered beets, celery, frozen custard, chocolate cake, coffee, milk.

SUPPER—Stuffed eggs on sliced ham, endive salad with French dressing, hot biscuits, strawberries and cream, cake, tea, milk.

Contract Bridge

SMALL SLAM MISSES

Not one of the duplicate players sitting either North or South bid a small slam, although perfect play would yield that score, either in hearts or clubs.

At a heart call West's only rational opening lead is the K of spades, but no other opening lead can accomplish more. Win with dummy's Ace. As the North-South hearts are missing and dummy holds only a doubleton, lead the Ace of hearts followed by a small one. East's 8 obliges the play of the Queen. If West win the first and only trick for his side. The best return lead is one of the small spades. Declarer will ruff, then pull trumps by leading his Q. Discard one of dummy's spades on the heart lead.

Lead the Q of diamonds. West probably will not cover with one more of the suit that dummy holds. Unless West covers with his K play low from dummy. In either case declarer has no diamonds to lose. His two remaining cards of that suit may be discarded on the two long clubs in dummy. Declarer will ruff the last spade held by dummy.

If North plays the deal at clubs, he will make a grand slam with any opening except a trump. Suppose a natural lead of a spade is made by East. Win with the Ace. Have dummy ruff a spade, and back the Q of either red suit. Declarer cannot lose a trick in that suit. On the second lead of the red suit declarer will be in. He will then ruff his last losing spade. The next thing will be to lead the Q of the red suit remaining. Declarer will ruff, no matter what the suit. Dummy's last trump will be used to ruff declarer's last spade. Declarer will trump a return lead of one of the red suits. He will draw all of trumps.

Either an opening lead of hearts or diamonds also would give declarer a grand slam. The only opening lead which would prevent a grand slam at clubs is to have East hold the Ace. That will not in the least interfere with making a small slam, but it will prevent dummy from ruffing three spade leads held by declarer. With that exception declarer's strategy will be as outlined above.

It is quite unusual for nobody to risk a slam at duplicate when that contract is made in either of two suits, while probably a grand slam may be made at clubs. Once dummy is down on the table either small slam is so plainly marked that the poorest player in the room should make it readily.

Maybe It Doesn't Pay to Slave and Doll Hubby All Up—It May Make Him More Susceptible to Wiles of Other Women

DEAR MISS DIX—The idea that when a woman is married to a slovenly man she should pinchhit for a valet and send him forth each morning brushed and pressed, spic-and-span and looking like Clark Gable sounded good to me, so I tried it. In the matrimonial lottery I had the luck to draw a husband who always appeared to have just been fished out of the dirty-clothes hamper, so I would take away the soiled shirt and replace it with a clean one with the buttons all in place. I'd sit at home darning socks and putting false cuffs on Papa's pants because he was too stingy to buy new ones. I'd wash Papa's face and ears and press his suit and make him look like a clothing ad. But one day when I was mending Papa's coat what did I find but a letter from Papa's girl friend, and set me wondering if maybe I hadn't finished my job up-a-stump and made him look good to other women I might have kept him for myself. So what?

MRS. V. B. S.

Answer:

Don't ask me. Nobody knows the answer, though millions of women spend their lives trying to figure it out. How to be a good wife and not ruin hubby is the insoluble cross-word puzzle of the ages. Your experience is an example in point. You took a sloothy, unshorn and unshaven man whose trousers bagged at the knees and whose linen was not beyond reproach and at whom, in his natural state, every woman would have turned up her nose.

You ran him through the laundry and the barber shop. You denied yourself a water wave to buy him a fancy necktie. You sat up nights getting the spots off his waistcoat and putting a razor edge on his safety, and generally metamorphosed him into the glass of fashion and the mold of form. What's the result?

You've turned the scarecrow into something that catches the feminine eye. Instead of being an humble and domestic husband, he has become a devil among the women. He has gone with the wind, or words to that effect.

Nor are you alone in finding that your efforts to help your husband have proved a boomerang that was your undoing. Many a woman makes of her back a ladder on which her husband climbs to success only to have him kick it down when he has reached the top. Well do I recall the case of a devoted wife who took in fine laundering to help her clever and ambitious husband finish his college course and who supported him by the work of her hands until he got a start in his profession. Her reward was to have him tell her that he had entirely outgrown her and that she was no longer any companion for a cultured man and one who meant to go to high places in the world.

The world is filled with the old wives who have slaved their fingers to the bone cooking, washing, sewing, baby-tending, helping their husbands to make their fortunes who find themselves discarded for young wives when the money is made. So commonly does this happen that many wives don't even try to help their husbands get rich. They regard it as too dangerous. They say that the only sure way to keep a husband is to keep him poor and not worth the gold-digging attentions. All of which goes to show that being a wife is a difficult and perilous job. The wonder is that so many girls have the nerve to tackle it.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—What do you think of a married man who specializes in affairs with young girls?

M. I. M.

Answer:

I think he is the lowest of the human species because he is ruining the lives of two people. Often more, because generally he has children whose peace, security and happiness are wrecked by the misery he brings into the home.

The tortures of the Inquisition were not cruder than the pangs of jealousy a man inflicts on his wife when he leaves her sitting alone for dreary evenings at home while he plays around with young girls. She sounds the depths of misery as she contrasts her fading looks with the girl's fresh beauty, her sadness of the neglected with the other's gaiety and high spirits, and knows all that his coming by which to conjure him back again and that she has lost him forever. Nor is her sorrow mitigated by knowing that he is not worth loving; that he is faithless, lacking in honor and respect for his obligations.

The wrong the philanderer does his wife is great but it is not greater than the wrong he does the young girl of whose ignorance of the world he takes advantage, whose innocence he sells, and whose heart only too often he breaks, even as he has broken his wife's.

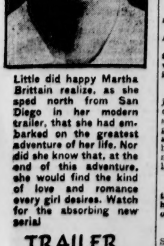

It is easy for a married man to make a girl fall in love with him. She is flattered, to begin with, by thinking that there is something about her that is attractive to a mature man; and she is silly enough to believe that she is a vamp if she can take a married man away from his wife. Then the married man has more money to spend on her and can take her to smarter places of entertainment and give her handsomer presents than a boy can. And he knows all the arts and wiles. So the average young girl is as helpless in his hands as a bird in the nets of a fowler.

It amuses the married man to win her, to play with her and to throw her away when a fresher toy catches his fancy. It is nothing to him if the girl has fallen so much in love with him she will never have any love to give any other man, or if he drags her reputation in the dust so no man will want her. There must be a very special punishment saved for the married philanderer.

SATURDAY APRIL 3rd

Your Children — By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Comparison is odious," goes the saw.

Mama Smith looks into baby Marie's mouth daily and wonders when those first teeth are coming through. Finally, months late, they show up. In the meantime, Mrs. Smith is wondering why Marie doesn't try to walk.

All the other babies her age are walking. Why not hers? The other children are doing cute things. Marie, but Marie just appears to sit and let the time pass.

O. R. Barton

Things work out and so does Marie. She gets her teeth eventually and walks well, but four months late according to her mother's calendar.

The past is forgotten. But now, here's her baby, still unable to do what the neighbor's children do. She can't get the secret of the pedals on her scooter. She can't catch a ball. At the table little Marie still has trouble with spoons and forks.

SCHOOL CAUSES MORE WORRY

And school comes. By this time, of course, the child knows all about spoons and balls and forks. She has caught on to everything her mother used to worry about, all in her own good time, a few months after her playmates, that is all.

Teachers find in Marie no apt pupil. She has a terrific time getting the "man's" and "can's" and "fan's" sorted.

"Oh, dear, I was afraid she'd be slow," sighs Marie's good mother. "And now she will drag the whole way through school, for years and years."

The child doesn't drag, but she never gallops or even trots. She goes at a very deliberate walk at the tail end of the line.

She is a sober little girl. She talks slowly, thinks slowly and acts deliberately. It doesn't upset her much to hear her schoolmates being cheered. But by this time her parents have perceived a certain ability to analyze and get at reason and roots of things. Dare they hope?

High school wins her the reputation of being too much of a sobersides to be popular. With initiators she cuts no swathe. She argues points and won't conform to what society says. Sports have no charm for her. She likes to dance but is too awkward to bag dates.

And college finds her unelected as the mat popular, the most efficient, the most useful or brilliant student.

METAMORPHOSIS SEEMS SUDDEN

Marie has few beaux. Her relatives all say, "Too bad—but Marie never had what it takes." They still think her stupid and uninteresting.

At 20 Marie writes a play. It suits print. She finds fame. The dramatic department puts it on, and it is a howling success.

After graduation Marie gets into the big magazines. She begins to shape up and be beautiful. Suddenly out of nowhere, appear assurance and charm. At 26 she marries a man of intellect and position. Our little Marie who couldn't cut a tooth, who couldn't make her pencil behave, who was almost the tag end of everything.

What was the matter with the child? She was merely a year or two longer in developing, and therefore always doing tasks expected of older children. Some young people are mature mentally and emotionally at 16. Others not until 20 or even 30. Encourage the slow child. He is more likely to have "purpose," and as a result won't spread himself too thin to count.

The art of using perfume effectively is a subtle one. A dress should be faintly perfumed through-out, rather than strongly fragrant just in one spot. Try hanging a little sachet bag on each hanger in your closet. All your clothes will be evenly and delicately scented.

Debunker

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

There is no connection whatever between the term "Country Dances" and country life. These dances are largely of village origin, and they derive their name from the French word "contre-danse," which means a contra-dance—any dance in which the partners stand opposite (contra) each other in parallel lines and dance in couples up and down, between the lines, as done in the Sir Roger de Coverley or Virginia reel. Contra-dances have been popular in the villages of England and other countries for centuries.

Planes At Home - - Mid Ocean

This scene shows not the vast expanse of a landing field, as you might suppose, but the deck of a British aircraft carrier in mid-ocean, with five airplanes winging homeward to their floating base. Notice the "fences" strung across the deck which check the speed of a landing plane. White lines divide the deck into runways.

IMMIGRATION HOISTED UNTIL TIMES IMPROVE

Dr. W. J. Black, C.N.R. Colonization Official, is City Visitor

Until the internal unemployment situation has been considerably improved there will be little immigration to Canada, stated Dr. W. J. Black, Montreal, director of immigration, colonization and agriculture for the Canadian National Railways, who arrived in Edmonton Thursday evening in the course of a coast to coast tour of Canada. Conditions are improving, he stated, but the general upward trend will not be generally reflected in western Canada until farmers enjoy good crops at fair prices.

Dr. Black is making a survey of immigration and agricultural conditions in western Canada, and is conferring with agents in the different cities and towns he visits. He will leave for Vancouver on Saturday morning.

SLOW RETURN

Rational immigration will return slowly, stated Dr. Black, but in his opinion there will not be a general influx until conditions in European countries, especially Great Britain, become less attractive to the workers. In Britain today, he said, farm laborers were being paid more than Canadian farmers can give their hired help. He also stated that considerable numbers of skilled mechanics were going to Britain from Canada to ensure jobs.

Migration of farmers from one district to another, and from province to province, and the settling of northern Quebec areas were the major matters under the care of his department. He was enthusiastic concerning the Quebec settlement scheme, which was resulting in the clearing and bringing into cultivation a large quantity of land. Farmers on this land were finding a ready market for their products in the mining territory.

There is room in Canada at present for farmer immigrants with sufficient cash to take up an equity in a farm and have a surplus to properly equip themselves for their farming operations, concluded Dr. Black.

London to Coast In 48 Hours Time Next September

OTTAWA, April 2—A trans-Canada air service by next September, linking Halifax and Vancouver on a 21-hour schedule with a six-cent-a-mile fare, was held out to the house of commons yesterday by Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of transport.

The minister said Canadians would be able to travel between Montreal and Vancouver on a 16-hour schedule, leaving Montreal in the evening and arriving on the west coast at noon the next day.

Similarly, a five-hour schedule will be operated between Montreal and Halifax, linking the Atlantic and Pacific coasts with a service designed to carry passengers, mail and freight. Experienced Canadian pilots will fly the planes which will be guided by the latest scientific aids to navigation, including the radio beam.

REGULAR SERVICE

Within 12 to 18 months, the minister expected, a regular trans-Atlantic air service would be operating, linking the old world with the new on a 24-hour schedule. Montreal will be the Canadian terminus for the route which will be operated by a company owned jointly by Canada, the Irish Free State and Great Britain.

Legislative authority for incorporation of the trans-Canada air lines went through committee stage yesterday and was expected to be given third reading today. The line will be controlled by the Canadian National Railways, empowered to sell 49 per cent of the stock to interested aviation companies.

EMERGENCY FIELDS

A chain of emergency landing fields 90 miles apart would mark the route, the Minister said. Weather reports would be sent by telegraphic printer from field to field and by radiophone from ground to plane.

Landing fields from Winnipeg west were completed and in the east would be completed by the fall, Mr. Howe said. This, coupled with the impossibility of obtaining transport planes any earlier, was delaying opening the service.

Earlier consideration was given to amendments to the Combines Investigation Act when it was charged that radio and electrical companies were abusing patent rights.

The Combines Act amendments, still in committee stage, will be considered again today, to be followed by budget resolutions and supply.

YOU COMMONER? THEN DRESS LIKE THIS FOR RITES

LONDON, April 2.—Coronation dress regulations for commoners specify that full dress uniforms or full court dress should be worn. With this, knights who have been granted the cross of their order of knighthood and knights-commander will wear mantles.

Full orders and decorations should be worn, except with court dress which calls for miniatures.

Representatives of labor organizations and members of the British house of commons have the alternative of evening dress under special regulations.

Women, other than peeresses, will wear full court dress, without trains, of pastel or white. Weathers and veils are compulsory and dames grand cross will wear mantles.

Oriental dress may be worn if it is the usual ceremonial dress.

Slander Suit Set

LONDON, April 2—Ernest Simpson's suit for slander against Mrs. Joan Sutherland has been set for hearing probably late in April.

BIG SUMS FOR ARMS SCORED BY TEACHERS

Destruction Of Democratic Institutions In Many Countries Deplored

Protesting against the destruction in many countries of democratic institutions, and the rapid increase of armaments, the Alberta Teachers Association at its closing session of the convention in the Macdonald hotel Thursday afternoon passed a resolution deploring the increasing expenditure for armaments made by the Dominion government in Canada, and re-affirmed its faith in the necessity of the teaching profession making a definite stand to assist in the reservation of democratic ideals and institutions.

The resolution was added to a list of more than 90 problems which have been dealt with during the four-day session of the convention which concluded Thursday evening.

OTHER RESOLUTIONS

Other resolutions passed by the association urged the re-establishment of the travelling library plan which was commenced last year but discontinued.

It was also resolved that the incoming executive should draw up a report on teacher training, recommending changes such as longer periods of training, and higher academic entrance, to improve the standards of teachers.

Dr. C. Sansom of Calgary in presenting the officers' reports urged that the incoming executive study rural high school education and press for more adequate grants.

NEW EXECUTIVE

The new executive was installed as follows: President, Dr. M. E. Lazerte; vice-president, Raymond Shaul of Provost; retiring president, Eric Ansley, Edmonton representative, H. C. Clark, Edmonton; Calgary representative, Miss I. Breckon, Calgary; southeastern Alberta representative, Harry W. Bryant; northern Alberta representative, H. I. Sparby of Czar, northeastern representative, F. Hannochkoof Willingdon; central Alberta representative, James A. Smith, Paradise Valley; southeastern Alberta representative, James A. Brody, Lethbridge, succeeding Solon Low. Next year the association will meet in Calgary.

BRANDON GIRL AMNESIA VICTIM, SILENT IN U.S.

SEATTLE, April 2—King County hospital attendants said today a young woman identified as Eva Cristall, daughter of a prominent Brandon, Man., family, was on a "hunger strike."

The woman, whom Dr. Morrow said was apparently an amnesia victim, refused to talk and seemed unable to recall her name. Friends have called her "Eva" without eliciting response.

Attendants said Miss Cristall refused to eat last night and today, and was being fed through a tube.

She was found Sunday night wandering near the King Street station. She had arrived on a train from Portland, Ore., and had in her purse a ticket for Vancouver, B.C.

M.C.C. LEADS BY 17 RUNS

AUCKLAND, N.Z., April 2—Scoring 205 runs, the Marylebone cricket club touring team obtained a first innings lead of 17 runs in the closing match of the Australasian tour against a combined Auckland and Wellington team. Going in a second time the Anti-podeans had lost two wickets for 22 when play closed for the day.

Top scorers for the touring team were R. E. S. Wyatt and J. Hardstaff. The Warwickshire amateur hit up 56 and Hardstaff 51.

Takes Bed To Jail

Curlers in her hair, bedding in her arms and defiance in her expression, this young woman marched off to jail with 85 other feminine sit-down strikers when police evicted them from a Detroit cigar factory. The eviction from the cigar plant and another factory incensed labor leaders, brought a general strike threat to Detroit.

Notables Send Felicitations To Nicholas Butler

NEW YORK, April 2—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University and worker for international amity, on his 75th birthday today gave a troubled world this advice:

"If civilization is to continue . . . the nations which call themselves civilized must find a way to cope together as members of a family of nations in order to deal with those great concerns which are common to all of them."

The fortnightly Columbia "Independent Journal" printed congratulatory messages from notables of many parts of the world, among them the Governor-General of Canada and Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King.

Lord Tweedsmuir's message was of "warm personal greetings to an old friend."

Prime Minister King extended congratulations and best wishes "as one who has enjoyed the friendship of Dr. Butler for a third of a century."

What Is Insult To Injury? Well, Here's Instance

BOSTON, April 2—A thief stole $110 worth of wearing apparel from William Wright's parked automobile and today a young man appeared at his tailor shop, laid down the same goods, Wright said, and suggested he had a big bargain if he would buy them.

The young man, Deviere Innis, was held on $500 bail for a continued hearing April 8.

Hospital Leaguers Holding Parade Of Pooches Here Today

These are dog days in Edmonton and the city's canine aristocrats are playing host to a tide of dogdom in western Canada.

Prize-winning entries of the recent Saskatoon dog show are among the contenders for honors in the parade of pooches being held Friday and Saturday in Penn Motors show rooms, Jasper and 114 street, where the Junior Hospital League is staging its annual dog show with a bigger entry list than ever before.

Edmonton exhibitors rated in the high brackets at the Saskatoon show, when 18 entries were sent down, and these dogs will be preening themselves here Friday. In return, Saskatoon dog fanciers are sending up about the same number of entries seeking honors at the Edmonton event. Blue bloods among the dogs are also coming here from Prince Rupert, Winnipeg, Vancouver and other western centres, making this year's show a stand-out.

BEST DOG HANDLER

At Saskatoon, J. H. Tanton of Edmonton won the prize as the best dog handler at the show.

Cocker spaniels from this city which took prizes were sent by the following exhibitors: J. H. Tanton, Calmas Standard Bearer, first in Canadian bred dogs, and J. S. Grant, Prince Charming II, second. The dog also won the limit dogs class and Mr. Tanton's dog the open dogs class, with Prince Charming, second. The dogs won the championship and reserve championship, respectively.

Mrs. M. A. Alnaile's Doreen's Cherry Blossom was winner in the junior puppy bitches and novice bitches class, also champion in her class in the parti-color cocker spaniels.

Dies At Coast

S. S. STONEHOUSE
formerly of Dominion Motors, Ltd., of this city, who died in Victoria, B.C., on Thursday, according to word received here Friday.

The Inquiring Reporter

Dominion government has moved to take full control over the manufacture, import and export of arms, ammunition and war material, according to a bill introduced into the House of Commons, recently.

What do you think of this latest action by the government? the Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter asked today.

Here are the answers:

SID PARSONS, president Ex-Service Men's Association: National-ization of the manufacture of arms is the only measure which will protect the public against exploitation in armaments. It's a well-known fact there was profiteering of the worst kind during the Great War, investigation showing that arms manufacturers were supplying both enemy and allied troops with the implements of war. Strict control by the Dominion of the production of armaments would prevent this.

WILLIAM GRIFFIN, ex-service man: War is horrible enough without munitions men making huge profits at the expense of civilians and fighting men. The Great War taught us something about this. If gun factories were restricted in manufacture the people would be safeguarded, and we would not be in a position where munitions which we paid for, being used against us by the enemy.

FREDDIE FRANKS, salesman: I think the federal government is making a step in the right direction in the matter of protection against this sort of profiteering, which has made huge fortunes for many men in the past. The more control the Dominion can exert over munitions factories the better it will be for the people of the world.

* * *

ANDY McFARLANE, dairy foreman: I'm glad to see that the Dominion has at last decided to take action which will stop large armament profits. With the possibility of another war looming at present, the proposed Bill will safeguard Canada against illegal profiteering to a great extent. Restrictions on exports should prevent arms factories sending munitions to both sides in the event of another conflict.

NORTH WEATHER OBSERVER MADE DAILY FLIGHTS

Having spent the winter in charge of meteorological research at Fort Smith, N.W.T., in which upper air observations were made by Royal Canadian Air Force aviators, Gerald C. Gill, M.A., of Toronto, returned to the city Thursday in a Mackenzie Air Service plane, piloted by Bob Randall.

In its flights to heights of 15,000 to 17,000 feet the air force plane here missed a day from November 1 to March 2, taking off in all weather and flying above the clouds, Mr. Gill said.

Radiation measurements, or measurement of the speed at which the earth loses its heat during the night, were made by Mr. Gill, as well as the temperature gradient, which is the temperature at various levels. Coldest temperature was nearly always encountered at the surface of the snow, he said, the thermometer rising up to heights of 3,000 to 5,000 feet and dropping at greater altitudes. Four inches below the snow surface, he had found temperatures to be as much as 20 degrees warmer than on the surface.

Mr. Gill is leaving for Penticton, B.C., to carry on observations in connection with establishment of the trans-Canada airplane transportation service.

Hearts Football Club will hold a practice game on Sunday, April 4, at Victoria High school grounds at 1 p.m., weather permitting. All last year's players and any others wishing a tryout are asked to report at the Leland hotel on 102 street.

COLOR AIDS EYES

By Jackson Bros. Optometrist, J. E. THOMAS, R.O.

Did you know that color travels in waves. Like radio waves, and with the exception of transparent mediums, every object contains some sort of pigment and is therefore a color mirror. A red apple for instance reflects red wave length to the eyes. We have learned that all seeing results from reaction of the nerve ends in the retina to light. We have learned that these nerve ends have two forms, rods and cones. It appears that color is perceived by the cones of the retina, but exactly how these cones distinguish different hues is not definitely known. We do know however, that every hue can be made from the three primary colors, red, yellow and blue, so the theory has been advanced that certain of the cones are tuned to red wave lengths, certain others to yellow wave lengths, and still a third group to blue wave lengths.

One of the ways in which color aids man through his eyes, is by increasing his efficiency, by choosing colors which contrast sharply. Visibility is increased, and as a result fewer mistakes, less lost motion, and less fatigue.

Color plays an important part today in nearly everything a man does; such as styling merchandise, designing packages, and so on.

There are various means whereby the knowledge and ingenuity of man are used to aid the eyes, whereby man is helping nature to let us continue to see like human being. Seven out of ten of us need these aids. Do you?

CAPITOL FILM IS HELD OVER SECOND WEEK

For the first time in the history of the Capitol theatre in Edmonton, a feature presentation has been held over for its second week. Demands for a second week's run of the sensational production in technicolor, "Wings of The Morning," have been so great that Manager Walter Wilson had no alternative but to hold the show over.

The picture commenced its run on Good Friday and the theatre has been packed at every performance for a full week. Many people have seen the film several times.

The picture was produced in England by Twentieth Century Fox Films, using all-English artists and their own studios in England. The stars of the film are Annabella, the new European screen sensation, Henry Fonda and Leslie Banks, while the famous Irish tenor, John McCormack and the world famous English jockey, Steve Donaghue, also take leading roles.

"Wings of The Morning" will continue until next Friday.

CITY WEATHER IS UNCHANGED

No change for the better in Edmonton's weather is anticipated by the local weather bureau, the forecast on Friday morning being the same reliable "fair and moderately cold." Thursday's temperatures varied little from those of the past few days, the highest reading during the day being 33 above, registered at 3 p.m. The lowest reading up to 9 a.m. Friday was registered at 7 a.m., when the red line was at 24 above. By 9 a.m. the mercury had mounted to 29 above.

Near north weather is also unchanged, the highest 8:30 a.m. reading in the region being 34 above, at Hudson Hope, while the coolest spot at that time was Keg River, at 20 above.

Habitants, But Their Instinct Was Debutante

QUEBEC, April 2.—While a judge and lawyers waited for several rural witnesses in a civil suit here, the habitants were waiting too—in the lobby of an hotel.

Finally located, they said they were informed by a citizen the hotel was the court house.

"We were waiting for our names to be called," they pleaded.

VIC INGRAHAM IS FLOWN OUT FOR TREATMENT

Vic Ingraham, postmaster at Cameron Bay, Great Bear Lake, was brought to Edmonton Thursday in a Mackenzie Air Service plane for treatments in his amputated leg.

Ingraham was skipper of the schooner "Speed" which exploded on Great Bear Lake in 1933, killing two men. He was rescued by airplane from a camp he had managed to patch in a bay of the lake, but frostbite and burns made necessary the removal of part of one of his legs.

Other passengers with Randolf were O. D. Bush, G. C. Gill, M. Hammond and child, and G. P. Paterson.

Pilot Alex Dane arrived in the city Friday morning, bringing Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Sage and Fred Sage from Fort McMurray.

Marlowe Kennedy and Harry Hayler both were reported homebound from Fort Smith on Tuesday.

Looking Them Over

Champions Again

Whims and Whams

The Japs Prepare

LAST night the Edmonton Grads won the dominion women's basketball championship again—for the 17th time to be exact, if our records are straight, and keeping the Grads' records correct is no easy matter. It is not exactly right to say that the Page machine "won" the national title for the 17th time, for there were several years when there was no team in Canada that felt capable of challenging them. However, the Grads have retained the title over that period.

Unless you stop to think for a minute, it may appear that there is very little competition for this dominion championship, since the Grads had to beat only Calgary and Vancouver to take it this year.

The reason that there were no eastern contenders is chiefly the Grads themselves. It costs a lot of money for a team to come here or go to Vancouver and none of the eastern teams are hopeful enough of winning to foot the bill themselves. It is not that girls' basketball is dying out—for it is steadily growing.

The Boys All Have Their Whims

FROM one end of sportdom to the other you will never find such a screwy bunch of characters as you will in major league ball. There is hardly one of them that hasn't got some quaint little custom all of his own. Take Ethan Nathan Allen, now of the Browns. He photographed himself right out of the National league, according to the yarn they tell around Chicago Cub headquarters. Plenty of lads have eaten, drunk and gambled their way out of a major league, but Ethan Nathan is the first to blaze a photographic exit.

It was really these miniature movie cameras that put the skids under Allen so far as the National loop was concerned. He was a chronic addict and reeled off scores of "shots" daily. He took a few feet of film of the boys as they shaved, snored, ate, or dressed in the club house. If one of the Cubs had to make a wild and undignified dash for the train, Ethan Nathan was sure to be leaning out of a window with his movie camera training on him. It got so that the boys started to hold secret meetings at which they tried to decide whether to bust the pesky camera, or just bust Ethan. Every ball player snores if he's healthy, and every now and then one of them has to run around the club house in his shirt tail in search of a sock, but to have these things photographed and shown for the amusement of the rest of the club, is too much—away too much.

The show-down finally came one day last fall at Wrigley Field. The Cubs were batting and Ethan Nathan was in the dugout awaiting his turn. He suddenly rushed out with his movie camera and planted himself just across the plate from the batter to get a close-up of his expression when he missed the third one.

Boss P. K. Wrigley was in his box and the incident made him so mad that he determined to put Ethan Nathan and his camera on the auction block. However, all the National league clubs were wise to the menace that the fatened them and they declined him at any price—regardless of the fact he was hitting .300, had 147 hits in 121 games for 32 extra bases and had driven in 48 runs during 1936. The Browns got him finally, but his camera is still clicking along merrily.

For years Jimmy Collins has been carefully collecting broken bats—to the regret of scores of small boys. It was a major mystery to the fans, but the secret is finally out—he has used these bats to build a fence around his home at Rochester. Lefty Grove has enough balls to build himself a pyramid. He always keeps the last ball pitched in every game he hurls. Bill Dickey's winter pastime is concocting the best "cawn likker" that can be found in Arkansas.

The Japanese Prepare Methodically

PLANS and preparations are now well advanced in Japan for the 1940 Olympics and the Sons of the Rising Sun are making these preparations in a methodical way that is amazing. Instructions to the public, the police, customs officials, hotels—everyone from newsboys up—are being sent out in a steady stream. One of the more important of these instructions will be a comfort to the Edmonton Grads when they reach Tokio.

This order stipulates that Japanese must not ask visiting athletes their age. This question is a polite one in Japanese society at present. In fact it is somewhat of a social error if you do not ask a new acquaintance his or her age.

Another preparation that will meet with cheers from natives and visitors alike is a campaign to rid Tokio of its vicious swarms of mosquitoes—man-eaters who have absolutely no respect for the persons of visiting stars and dignitaries. Another point that has given the good

Wings Cop 2-1 Score For Title

Eliminate Gallant Squad of Les Canadiens After Habitants' Great Fight Lasting 111 Minutes.

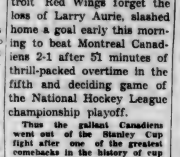

By SYDNEY GRUSON

FORUM, MONTREAL, April 2.—Hec Kilrea, the veteran speedster who made Detroit Red Wings forget the loss of Larry Aurie, slashed home a goal early this morning to beat Montreal Canadiens 2-1 after 51 minutes of thrill-packed overtime in the fifth and deciding game of the National Hockey League championship playoff.

Thus the gallant Canadiens went out of the Stanley Cup fight after one of the greatest comebacks in the history of cup play. They went out after tying the game late in the third period when the Red Wings were less than six minutes from victory in regulation time.

THIRD OF SERIES

Kilrea's goal, his third of the series, came as the near exhausted teams skated towards the close of the third overtime period. It gave Detroit the series three games to two and a place in the Stanley Cup final against New York Rangers or Montreal Maroons.

Hec Kilrea

The veterans Herb Lewis and Marty Barry, who drew Kilrea as a linemate may be cause Aurie broke his leg before the close of the season, were the starters of the play leading to the winning goal. They carried the puck into Canadiens' defensive zone and Barry whipped a shot by the right side of Wilf Cude's net.

It came out on the left and Kilrea, parked by the side, slashed it into a far corner before Cude even moved.

They went into overtime after Ebbie Goodfellow lashed a 25-foot shot past Cude early in the second period and Bill MacKenzie, just a couple of minutes after he was sent on for the first time, sent a raising backhand shot past Norm Smith at 14:36 of the third period.

SMITH WAS STAR

It was the pudgy Smith, back in goal after missing half the third game and all the fourth, who shared the hero's role with Kilrea. Smith was in there with an injured left arm but he couldn't have been better with two good ones.

He made 52 stops to 30 for Cude before the last overtime period started and he saved the game for Wings soon after that period opened with a thrilling leg stop on a close-in smash by Paul Haynes.

With so much at stake, the teams played surprisingly open hockey. The Canadiens, who would have made hockey history by winning a third straight, outshot the Wings in every period after the first but they couldn't get through Smith and his tight-checking front save for the late-third period goal by Mackenzie.

Twice Canadiens had the advantage of penalties but couldn't do a thing with the man advantage. The teams skated through the 51 minutes and 49 seconds of extra play without a penalty.

Japanese no end of worry is the fear that the morals of Japan's girlhood will be corrupted when they see the masculine athletic prowess of Occidental girls glorified. In fact they gravely suspect that the coming Olympics may end the sublime homage that women have paid to men since cherry blossoms first bloomed in Japan.

RAMBLERS WIN SECTION TITLE

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 2.—Philadelphia Ramblers Thursday night won the eastern section title of the International - American hockey league with a 5-0 win over Springfield Indians.

Victory gave Ramblers the sectional championship in two straight games. They won the opener of the best-of-three series on their home ice Tuesday night 3-0 and now meet either Pittsburgh Hornets or Syracuse in the finals. Hornets and Orquettes deadlocked at two games each in their western section playoff.

After Philadelphia had scored twice on goals by Bryan Hextall and Cliff Barton, the Quakers caught the Indians up the ice on quick breaks to easily beat Grant for three additional goals.

Lloyd Roubell, Hextall and Clint Smith drove through for the easy counters. Bert Gardiner played a fine game throughout to keep the Indians from scoring.

Braddock Offered $350,000 Bout

NEW YORK, April 2.—Joe Jacobs, American representative of Max Schmeling, said Thursday the German heavyweight had cabled him that Berlin fight promoters had reopened the $350,000 offer to Jim Braddock for a title fight with Schmeling there in June.

Lou Gehrig Bites The Dust

recently-signed star of the New York Yankees, is the subject of this magic eye strip, made as he took his first turn at bat during the 1937 spring training season. Lou was pictured as he connected with a fast ball, dropped his bat, turned to first to run it out, and then slipped on the gravel.

A vote of thanks was extended to the mixed bonspiel committee for the largest and best spiel in the history of the club.

'Peg Monarch Squad Thumps Wesleys, 5-2

Classy Manitoba Sextet Scored Three in Third to Lead Best - Of - Three Game Semi-Final Clash

By ROSS MUNRO

WINNIPEG, April 2.—Winnipeg Monarchs blazed their way through Saskatoon Wesleys here last night, scoring a 5-2 triumph in the first game of the best-of-three series for the Western Canada Junior Hockey title and the right to enter the Memorial cup finals.

After a halting start the Winnipeg youngsters hit their stride in the last period and whipped in four goals in a brilliant offensive, making them favorites to take the series. The second game will be played here Saturday night.

BOUNCE MONARCHS

For two periods Wesleys' solid defense of Pete Ettinger and Alton McFadzen stopped the Monarch forwards with stiff bodychecks but in the final period Monarchs slipped around them for three goals. The other goal of the final tally was scored by Reni Vandale on a penalty shot.

Despite Paul Rheault's first goal for Monarchs a minute after the start of the game, the Winnipeg lads found the Wesley defence hard to beat. Ettinger spilled them all over the ice and Bob Brownridge put the game on even terms near the end of the first period with a lone effort, beating Zenon Ferley in the Winnipeg nets from 10 feet.

HAD TOUGH LUCK

Monarchs had a tough bit of luck in the second period when their star right winger, Johnny McCreedy, knocked the puck into his own net when trying to clear. Archie Walder was credited with the goal for Saskatoon.

Wesleys' defence held tight throughout the second period and play was fairly even. Ettinger's penalty led to Monarch power plays that brought the 5,000 fans to their feet.

WESLEYS LOSE PUNCH

But in the final period, the Saskatoon defence seemed to lose its punch and Monarchs turned on the speed that took them through a gruelling Manitoba series and two convincing wins over Port Arthur in the playdowns.

Vandale scored first on the penalty shot and then, with seven minutes to go, Pete Langelle, second string centre, whipped in Monarchs' third goal to put them ahead. Dick Kowcinak scored again on a pass from McCreedy two minutes later and in a final splurge Jack Dent netted on a pass from Vandaele.

Games Are Dated For Charlton Tilts United States Tour

NEW YORK, April 2.—Playing dates for the United States half of the 12-game schedule arranged for the Charlton Athletic club, crack British soccer outfit, were announced Thursday by the United States Football association.

Charlton's tour will open in the Polo grounds, New York, May 30, against a selected team of eastern United States soccer stars. The visitors will play against a picked Allegheny Valley team at Pittsburgh, June 2; at Detroit, June 5; at Chicago, June 6, against an Illinois S.F.A. team. After six games in Canada, Charlton will return to play at Philadelphia, June 26, and at the Polo grounds for the second time June 27.

Happy Ranger Snipers

New York Rangers won the second straight play-off game from the Toronto Maple Leafs, at Madison Square Garden, New York to eliminate the Toronto team from further N.H.L. play-off games. The score was 2-1, with the tallies marked up by Babe Pratt, left, who banged home the final goal in the sudden-death overtime, and Butch Keeling, shown as they relaxed in the Ranger dressing room after the match. Last night it was Pratt, left, who scored the winning goal for the happy Rangers in their first series game with Montreal's Maroons.

Alberta Hockey Champions Banquetted by Jr. Chamber

Shore May Finance Ice Plant States Mayor During Talk

Edmonton's three provincial championship hockey squads were guests last night of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon held at the Hudsonia.

Together with a score of supporters and prominent citizens, all members of the teams, Waller Hunter's Dominions, Alberta and British Columbia junior champions, Bill Ruff's Gas Rangers, Alberta Junior champs and Henry White's midget Maple Leafs, also provincial titlists were present to receive congratulations on their achievements.

The dinner was presided over by Jerry Bricker, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. He acquitted himself smoothly in introducing and thanking the speakers.

MAIN SPEAKER

Dr. W. G. Hardy was the main speaker of the evening and did a great job of "buttering" for Hon. Solon Low, provincial secretary, who was unable to attend due to pressing business. In speaking for Mr. Low, Prof. Hardy gave a witty talk on interesting laws and charges in ancient history. In speaking for himself he enumerated some of the worries he had encountered in arranging for Allan cup and Memorial cup playdowns as first vice president of the C.A.H.A.

Mayor Joseph A. Clarke, K.C., an enthusiastic sportsman gave spirited talk in his usual forceful manner. After congratulating the teams and deploring the lack of support through the year he referred to the subject of artificial ice and stated that there was a definite possibility that Eddie Shore, all-time defence star in the N.H.L. would finance the project. The plant, said the mayor, would be put in the present arena in the east end. He added that it was one of the finest covered rinks in Canada.

ALL DETERMINED

A few words were also spoken by each team manager, Walter Hunter, Bill Ruff and Henry White. Each one of them showed a desire to "start off next year where they left off this year."

Others, besides the speakers mentioned, who sat at the head table were: Chief A. G. Shute, John D. Dower, president of the Senior Chamber of Commerce, Fred Chorley, Lowell "Lefty" Grove, coach of the Dominions, Herb Hamly and John Blue.

The meeting couldn't have been complete without a few words from Frank Drayton, "Hamlety" coach of all the teams. A man of few words, Mr. Drayton made special mention of Henry White's juvenile Maple Leafs, who didn't win the Alberta championship in all probability through an injury to their goalie in the provincial semi-finals with Calgary.

"Mickey" Miquelon led the community singing at the piano. He also sang a popular solo selection in the course of the evening.

INTERESTING PROGRAM

Others who figured on the entertainment program was the dancing and acrobatic team of Gordie Garside and Frank Lewis and Victor Benny who made a hit with his impersonifications, ranging from all the backyards animals to Fred Allen and Ned Sparks.

The only provincial cup that could be found in time for the occasion was the midget trophy, which was presented to Henry White by Professor Hardy.

French Bike Team Leads Big Grind

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 2.—The French team of Gadou and Lefeuvre took over the lead in the six-day bicycle race last night, replacing the Canadian duo, Torchy Peden and Jules Audy, who had led since the start.

At the end of the 50th hour Gadou and Lefeuvre had gone 873 miles, while Peden and Audy were a lap behind, though ahead of the pack on points.

Walter "Babe" Pratt Hero Of Rangers' 1-0 Margin Over Montreal—To Play Second Game Saturday

By GEORGE MAGUIRE

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, April 2—Youth and old age blended in perfect unison here Thursday night and gave New York Rangers a 1-0 victory over Montreal Maroons in the first game of the best-of-three Stanley cup semi-final series.

A sell-out crowd of more than 16,000 spectators saw Walter "Babe" Pratt, 22-year-old youngster from Kenora, Ont., give the Rangers their slim lead late in the opening period.

The lanky defenceman took a relay from the veteran Ching Johnson in the New York zone and clickhanded neatly through blocking Maroons.

BEAT BILLY

He veered to the short left side of the Montreal cage and, after losing the puck momentarily to the enemy, recovered it to blast a waist-high shot past Billy Beveridge. The crowd, armed with whistles, bells and other noise-making instruments, fairly tore the roof off the Garden in proclaiming the youngster whose shot had previously beaten Turk to Maple Leafs in the first round. That one goal was sufficient for the blueshirts who thereafter threw up a tight defensive barrier which defied the best efforts of the powerful Montreal team, who return to the Canadian metropolis for the second game Saturday, one game down to the surprising puckmen of Manhattan.

Maroons almost caught Rangers by surprise in the early minutes when they loosed a furious attack on the Ranger cage. The winners had expected the visitors to play cautiously awaiting the breaks and were almost caught napping. One brilliant work by Goalkeeper Davie Kerr, an outstanding hero of the

STYLE That Belongs

Another Tip Top creation—and London, right now, is endorsing the same style idea. It's a combination of unusual smartness and loungy comfort. The suit shown here is a two-button single-breasted model. A slightly longer coat, trousers full cut, tapering at knees and cuffs. Fullness through the chest gives a soft draped effect. A suit with true British spirit—stands plenty of wear but always presents a good front to the world.

Brighton Tigers' Tie With Harringay Gives Lions Championship

BRIGHTON, Eng., April 2. — Wembley Lions won the National hockey league title for the second successive year Thursday night when Brighton Tigers held Harringay Racers to a scoreless tie here. Racers needed a win to retain a chance of finishing in a tie with Lions. Wembley Monarchs defeated Richmond Hawks 7-6 in another game last night.

Lions now have 60 points to Racers' 57 and as each team has one game to play the best Racers can do is finish a point behind the champions.

INVITED TO TORONTO

Captained by Lou Bates of Ottawa, Lions have two other Ottawans and six Winnipeggers on their lineup. As National league champions they are invited to take part in an international series at Toronto this month. They would have to return to England for post-season game.

Fast and well balanced, Lions are worthy champions. Roy Musgrove of Winnipeg, the only goalie in England who wears spectacles, has been a great asset to them this season and has carried rushing as the top netminder of the league. They have a heavy defence, speedy wings and in Tony Leader of Winnipeg, a clever play-making centre.

Wembley Monarchs' win last night strengthened them in fifth position, but they won't bother that spot before the season closes on April 7.

Stan King of Fort William scored three of their goals last night and Jimmy Haggerty and Alex Sinclair of Fort Arthur, Jack Wilkinson of Ottawa and Jack Wilford of Winnipeg got the others. Hawks' scorers were Ab Conick and Harry McArthur of Sudbury, Red Coward of Fort Frances, Ont., and Tom Forgie and Dick Morrison of Fort Colborne, Ont.

Weber Defends Silver Belt Against Turk Here Tonight As Hanson Takes On Indian

Clever New York Hoosier Defends Award First Time Since Taking it From Kusek —Weber Rules Slight Favorite

With the fadeout of hockey and other winter sports, Mike Cutcher's pro wrestling card tonight surges to the front of sports attractions. The card, headed by Vic Weber's defence of the Canadian championship belt, will be held at the Memorial hall, starting at 9:00 o'clock.

The belt defence comes as a result of Abdul Khan's repeated challenges to the clever Gotham matman and is expected to produce lively moments of mat warfare. This headline attraction will be supported by a one hour time limit bout between Indian Ike Cazzell and Floyd Hanson.

CONCEDED ODDS

Weber, a prime favorite with local fans, is generally conceded odds to master the grimacing Turk. Although lighter than his swarthy opponent he is looked upon as a more polished grappler and one that flashes uncanny cleverness to capitalize on the breaks.

Despite all this the "Terrible Turk" as Khan is often referred to, may well turn the tables on the New Yorker. He will carry in the ring a slight advantage in weight and besides that is well known to profit by the laxity of Australian rules to weaken an opponent.

The semi-windup should work the grappling gentry up to the desired feverish pitch for the main. When Indian Ike Cazzell finally regained his full consciousness after Del Kunkel had plastered an artistic beating on him, had enough left in him to ask for a bout with Floyd Henson. Probably he wants to oil the humiliation of his defeat by taking it out on the big Swede.

HANSON IMPRESSIVE

Hanson made his first appearance here last week and was "sadly" impressive. Fans are looking for a primitive battle.

To open the card Cliff Parker will tackle George Bunka in a curfail bout. Both are former finalists in dominion amateur eliminations and should put on a good bout.

Gil Knutson will referee all bouts.

Giants Clear Up On Two Problems But One Remains

NEW YORK, April 2.—President Horace Stoneham of New York Giants, admittedly a little prejudiced, came back from a tour of the baseball camps Thursday with the prediction his Giants will win the National league pennant, even if their first-base situation is not all it might be.

"We had three problems when we went south," he said. "And at least we've solved two of them. Hal Schumacher, and the improvement of Lou Chiozza at third base are the two changes on which Stoneham builds his hopes.

"Chiozza has speed and has definitely sold himself to Terry, and with Schumacher back in condition, I think we have the finest pitching staff in the majors." Stoneham said.

BYRON NELSON LEADING STARS AUGUSTA GOLF

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 2.—Byron Nelson, a 25-year-old bashful youngster from Reading, Pa., gave par and his fellow professionals a beating Thursday in the opening round of the $5,000 Augusta national tournament as Bobby Jones, onetime king of the golf world, all but shot himself out of the running in his fourth comeback attempt.

Nelson, metropolitan open champion, and ninth among the winter money winners, shattered the competitive record for the course with a sensational 66, six under par.

Jones, unable to regain the concentration that carried him to 13 major titles, suffered a miserable case of putting "jitters" to fall far behind with a 79, seven strokes over par and in a tie for 42nd place after the first 18 holes.

Trailing Nelson, a 14 to 1 shot in the tournament books, by three strokes was Ralph Guldahl from St. Louis. His 32 clipped four strokes from standard figures on the second nine after a one-over-par 37 going out.

Lighthorse Harry Cooper of Chicago, 91 to 6 choice in the books, finished in a six-way tie for 12th place with a 73.

Big Ed Dudley of Philadelphia put together rounds of 33-35 for a neat 70 and was tied for third position with smiling Wiffy Cox of Washington, D.C., and Lawson Little of San Francisco, the former amateur champion of two continents and current Canadian open champion.

Fred Haas, Jr., of Baton Rouge, La., Guardian amateur champion carded 36-40—76.

The catching situation and third base are okay now, but Bill Terry's not quite satisfied with first base.

The return to form of Phil Weintert is also a big help to Stoneham's hopes.

"Chiozza has speed and has definitely sold himself to Terry, and with Schumacher back in condition, I think we have the finest pitching staff in the majors." Stoneham said.

Spencers Lose Two Straight But Hold Champions To 36-27

Vancouver Girls Resort to Rough Tactics To Stem Defeat; Bruised Grads Held Scoreless in Third Quarter

By STU KEATE
(Edmonton Bulletin Correspondent)

VANCOUVER, B.C., April 2—"Well, girls," said Percy Page with a whimsical toss of his silvery-thatched head, "I guess we'll just have to call that one 'the battle of Vancouver'."

Grads were standing in the middle of Vancouver Athletic Club gym last night when Percy made the remark, winners for the umpteenth time (even Page can't remember exactly how many) of the Canadian Women's basketball championship. They defeated Spencers 36-27 in a bruising, hectic fray that had 1,200 fans in a complete lather of excitement.

Your Etta Dann left the floor with a large black lump over her right eye. Noel MacDonald limped perceptibly as some friends came down out of the crowd to greet her. Babe Belanger snapped "Huh! Best game of rugby I ever played in." Her right elbow has a knob on it as big as a golf ball.

ANYTHING GOES

Tendency of referees Earl McIntyre and Lee Foley to "let anything go" drew down considerable private criticism from the Grads.

Asked what he thought of the game, Coach Page replied: "If you want my honest opinion, it was terrible. We just don't play that kind of basketball in Edmonton."

Hopelessly beaten in the first game, the Vancouver girls went rough on the floor with the sole idea of stopping the Grads. And they very nearly made it. Trailing 22-8 at the half, Spencers held your team scoreless in the third quarter and outscored them 20-15 altogether in the last half.

SOPHIE STARS

Black-haired Sophie Brown was the sparkplug that brought Grads out of their slump in the last quarter. Going on for Babe Belanger, she fired three baskets in quick succession to put her team out in front by 31-18. Then Mabel Munton was banished on four personals and Vi Russell and Verna Briscoe of Spencers potted some neat shots to bring the score to 31-23. At this point diminutive Helen Northup, who showed as much fight as anyone on the floor, sneaked through for two baskets and a foul to cinch the game for Grads.

Spencers played a spoiling game throughout. Girls of each team scrambled for every ball, swinging around like wrestlers and at various times tossing their opponents into the crowd.

NOEL CLICKS

Captain Noel MacDonald was the star of the opening attack that gave Grads a lead of 12-2 at the first quarter and 22-6 at the half. She was assisted by the calm Miss Munton, who was forced to ease up a bit when she incurred fouls early in the game. Sophie Brown's shooting and Helen Northup's aggressiveness were highlights of the "pressure play."

Grads play against Superiors in Victoria tonight. Tomorrow afternoon they leave for home, and if you are planning on meeting them at the station, Edmontonians don't forget to bring the linament!

Smelters Win Over Athona Club In Hockey Clash

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

COLDFIELD, Alta., April 2. — Consolidated Smelters rode to a 2-1 victory Sunday over Athona in the first play-off game for the mining league's cup. The game was hotly contested from the face-off and was punctuated by stick-swinging, pile-ups and penalties. Rusty McColl slipped the rubber past Lemay for an opening counter in the first period. Mickey Hillcoat picked on off in the second giving the winners an edge which Athona was unable to overtake despite their brilliant rally in the second period when they pounded Lucky Lockhead insistently and Curly McDonald got one by the Consolidated custodian.

blue shirt triumph, preven'ed Maroons scoring an early and successful lead.

HAD BEST OF PLAY

Maroons maintained a marked edge in territorial play throughout the game, outshooting Rangers 34 shots to 19, but they seldom fathomed the brilliant defensive teamwork of the aging Johnston, Art Coulter of Winnipeg and Ott Heller.

This trio backed by Kenny Ions' resounding plus loudly backchecking by the forwards enabled the Rangers to withstand the blazing Maroon thrusts, particularly in the final frame, when the visitors went all out to notch the equalizer.

Only two penalties were called in the torrid struggle, each team getting one.

SOCCER CLUBS ARE BUNCHED AS END NEARS

Manchester City Looked Upon As Formidable Contender Now

LONDON, April 2.—Easter holiday matches failed to solve the English football league championship riddle and it is likely the bitter fight will not produce a winner until the last week of the campaign. Final games are scheduled for May 1.

Playing at the top of its form and unhampered by the injuries that kept the squad back earlier in the season, Manchester City is looked upon in many quarters as a formidable contender. The Mancunians share third place in the league table along with Portsmouth and Middlesbrough, three points behind the leaders, but they have two games in hand that may make all the difference in the end.

STUBBORNLY BATTLE

Stubbornly contesting every inch of the way, Arsenal and Charlton Athletic are bunched in first place with 47 points, but the Gunners have a much superior goal average.

Arsenal entertains West Bromwich Albion at Highbury, Saturday, but will field a weakened team.

The Londoners have a long list of casualties and their star centre-forward, Ted Drake, is out of the game for the rest of the season with cartilage trouble. Hey may capture maximum points at the week-end as the Throstles, practically safe from relegation worries, are concentrating on winning English cup honors.

ONLY ONE CHANGE

Charlton is making only one change from the team that defeated Chelsea Easter Monday. The squad will make the long journey to Sunderland and, although the northerners have relinquished all hope of retaining the championship they won last year, they will put up a big scrap before the Roker park crowd.

Marshall, Manchester city's centre-half, will return to the team for the match at Brentford, but it will be a hard battle as the home team is still a strong contender for first-place honors.

Saddled with a heavy list of injuries, Manchester United is uncertain about its team for the home match against Leeds United. The teams share last place in the league with 27 points and are making desperate efforts to avoid demotion to the second division.

Aston Villa's chances of accompanying Blackpool back to the first division at the end of the season received a set-back Tuesday when the squad lost 2-0 to Newcastle United at Villa park. The Villa is in fifth place with 44 points, six less than the leaders. Leicester City and Huddersfield Town are placed with 46. Plymouth Argyle having 45.

Notts County looks good for the championship of the third division southern section, with a five-point margin over Luton Town, but Lincoln City and Stockport County are putting up a big fight for the honor in the northern section. Each team has 50 points.

LOUIS HOLMES ARRIVES HOME

Louis Holmes, product of Edmonton junior ranks, arrived in town yesterday from the Coast after a successful season with Oakland Clippers, known in the latter part of the season as the Spokane Clippers.

The speedy forward, who started with Edmonton Eskimos in the last years of the North Western Pro league, was still suffering slightly from a dislocated shoulder which he sustained in the last playoff game for the Pacific coast league title against Portland Buckeroos, when he was bowled by Lemon.

Louis enjoyed a good year and was well up in the scoring race. Persistent rumors have it that Holmes will be purchased by a major league outfit next season.

Kimberley Squad Back in Halifax

HALIFAX, April 2.—Kimberley Dynamiters, interprovincial amateur hockey champions, came back to Canada last night after a successful European tour.

The Dynamiters lost only four games of 65 played over a three-months period. Manager Johnny Arbuthnot said.

The members of the team left immediately for their homes. Arbuthnot had a few words to say about hockey in England.

"Hockey in England is a racket," he said. "The players are all splendid chaps, but the people responsible are the rink managers who are reaping a golden harvest."

S. B. STONEHOUSE PROMINENT HERE IN 1922, DEAD

VANCOUVER, April 2.—Stanley B. Stonehouse, native of Ontario and founder and president of Vancouver motor firm which bears his name, died suddenly here today, aged 60.

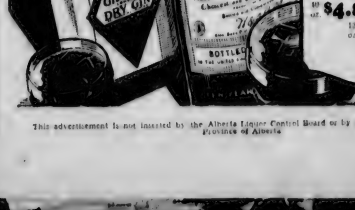

Born in Hampton, Ont., Mr. Stonehouse came to Vancouver in 1906, where he became associated with the lumber business. Three years later he went to Winnipeg, Sask., and Winnipeg, where he became associated with the motor business in 1914. After opening another automobile business in Edmonton, he again came to Vancouver in 1920.

Mr. Stonehouse was also a director in automobile companies in Brandon, Man., Edmonton and Moose Jaw, Sask.

The promoters have blown up the game to such an extent that the average fan is certain any one of the teams could trim Toronto Leafs or New York Rangers!

C. AND E. CLOSE DEAL FOR WELLS

Calgary and Edmonton Corporation announced Wednesday they had completed a deal with Royalite whereby a series of wells will be drilled on C. and E. holdings by Royalite.

Royalite-Sterling Pacific 5, one of the wells stipulated in the deal, was spudded in on March 8 and is now down 2,000 feet. The number of wells and their location has not yet been decided, it was said.

Apart from the Royalite drilling program 16 new wells will be drilled on C. and E. property this summer, it was announced. The announcement says that the Sterling Pacific well No. 4 on C. and E. acreage is producing 1,200 barrels of crude oil a day.

The companies which the announcement said are obliged to drill on C. and E. acreage in Turner Valley are: North American Petroleums, D. and D. Company, National Petroleum, Economy Royalties, Soturn Oils, West Flank Petroleums, Prairie Royalties (drilling), Flank Petroleums, Sundance Royalties, Calberta Petroleums, Alturner Oils, Brown Oil Corporation, Coronation Royalties, Mercury Royalties (drilling), Continental Oil Company and Marine Petroleums.

Other companies who have not yet announced their plans are also obligated to drill on C. and E. holdings, it was said.

In areas apart from Turner Valley the Franco Oil Company is drilling at 4,500 feet on C. and E. land in the Cardston district. The Arca well is drilling deep in the limestone on a structure west of High River and the Weymarn well on the Pincher Creek structure is awaiting a production test.

Speed Demons Need More Than Horror Publicity

NEW YORK, April 2—In the opinion of W. H. Cameron, managing director of the United States National Safety Council, it's going to take something more than "horror publicity" to cut the nation's traffic toll.

"A flash in the pan" and "not very effective" were some of the words he used today in discussing such weapons as the much-discussed book "And Sudden Death" in driving home the lesson of safety to the motoring public. The book described in detail the horrors of road accidents.

"More policemen on the road" is Cameron's answer.

FEATURETTES — NEWS

Hollywood Gossip

EVERY day there are news items reading: "Seventeen eroners were tested at Super-Whoozit studio for the leading part in Humpty-Dumpty," or "They have tested 53 girls to date for the role of Scarlett in 'Gone With the Wind'," or "S. Sylvan Simon has just completed his 500th test for one of the male leads in 'The Road Back'."

The importance of screen tests may be judged by the fact that more than 1,000,000 feet of motion picture film is exposed for them each year. That's about the equivalent of 150 feature photoplays.

Most dramatic, of course, are the tests of newcomers, eager young people getting their first crack at screen fame.

In silent days, tests of this sort was very haphazard; a girl would walk toward a camera, smile for a closeup, and exit.

Today a youngster may be under consideration for six months before he or she is granted a complete screen test. When the chance does come, the aspirant will rehearse for two weeks before it is taken.

These trials each cost about $300, including the wages of full technical crews, test director, makeup experts, and whatever players may be assigned to work opposite the candidates in the tests.

A seasoned actor can be of immeasurable assistance to a newcomer. For example, Claudette Colbert appeared opposite Fred MacMurray when he was being tested for his first important role. He was trembling so violently that he would have looked like a blur in the camera, but Miss Colbert caught his eye and brazenly winked at him. That wink snapped Fred right out of his nervousness, and he never has ceased to be grateful.

Scripts for screen tests often are specially written. They're not published drama, of course, but they do include a story or minor plot of some sort so that candidates may show their talent in building up to a climax.

Noted Actor Joins Huge Studio Cast

Augmenting an already unusually large supporting cast, Jonathan Hale was signed today by Paramount for a character role in "Toe Years Are So Long," which is being produced and directed by Leo McCarey. Hale recently portrayed the judge in "The Devil Is a Sissy."

Featured in "The Years Are So Long" are Beulah Bondi and Victor Moore, with Barbara Reed, Fay Bainter, Thomas Mitchell, Porter Hall, Elizabeth Risdon and others.

Sky Story

Cecil Lewis, noted author-adventurer, has been signed by Paramount to work on the screen treatment of "Men With Wings," superaviation picture planned for production sometime late this summer.

AMUSEMENTS

RIALTO

Box office records are falling at the Rialto theatre this week with the showings of "Silent Barriers," the great film based on the story of Canada's first transcontinental railway. The picture has been held over owing to the great demand of movie-going patrons.

Photographed in British Columbia, with the grandeur of the Rocky Mountains as its reenie background, the film is faithful to the actual history of the road. Richard Arlen heads the remarkable cast which turns in an unequalled performance. Sensational shots of labor disturbances, of the burning of a frontier town and of a tremendous forest fire sweeping through heavy timber have evoked much comment from Edmontonians.

Equipment usually used in the construction of the C.P.R. was brought from storage for use in making the film and no effort was spared to ensure historical accuracy.

In addition to Arlen, others in the cast include Lilli Palmer, Antoinette Cellier, Barry Mackay, Rex Emerton and J. Farrell Macdonald.

STRAND

The weirdest outbreak of popular hysteria in colonial times: the famous witchcraft scare of 1692, which rocked the American colonies and was responsible for the execution of over a score of women before it passed on, is the background for Frank Lloyds latest production, "Maid of Salem," a romance with Claudette Colbert and Fred MacMurray, which begins on Saturday at the Strand theatre.

Miss Colbert plays the role of a Puritan maid who is accused of being a witch because she is seen with a tall, dark stranger, and because she was observed dancing by herself. Pure testimony, provided by hysterical women and children with over-wrought imaginations, she is convicted and sentenced to die. The fact that the tall, dark stranger is handsome Fred MacMurray, who plays the role of a fugitive Virginia cavalier, hiding near Salem, means nothing.

Supporting the popular romantic couple is an elaborate cast which includes Harvey Stephens, Louise Dresser, Bennie Bartlett, Gale Sondergaard, E. E. Clive, Bonita Granville, Virginia Weidler, Honita Butler, Beulah Bondi, Edwards Ellis, Donald Meek and a score of others.

EMPRESS

Because his indefatigable manager was too successful in procuring for him engagements, Lawrence Tibbett flees out to the wide West to escape spending his every moment in song, in the Twentieth Century-Fox musical hit, "Under Your Spell," now at the Empress Theatre.

However, the baritone, in his taste to get away, forgets that every northern cowboy is a crooner, and when he arrive- a New Mexico ranch, Tibbett is greeted by a rousing campfire song-festival of thrilling choral harmonies. Featured are several new Western songs by Arthur Schwartz and Howard Dietz, popular rhythm masters.

"Under Your Spell" finds Wendy Barrie, Gregory Ratoff and Arthur Treacher in support of his world-famous singing star.

Second attraction is a western, "The Three Mesquiteers," with Bob Livingston, Ray Corrigan and Sid Taylor.

FRED ASTAIRE uses a bicycle to travel about from set to set at the studio to save his famous feet. The bicycle bears a sign, "Hoofer's Department."

PLAYERS FIND NEW CAREERS

When some enterprising theatre owner got the idea of showing two features for the price of one, he wrecked the careers of a large group of high-salaried actors and actresses.

And incidentally this group has given to the motion picture industry such figures as Wesley Ruggles, Bobby Vernon, Norman Taurog, Norman McLeod, and Frank Tuttle.

The group is composed of two-reel comedy stars. With two features on the program, a news reel, trailers, and so forth, there was no time for standard two-reel comedies and as a result they have virtually disappeared from the theatres.

Bobby Vernon, now a script doctor at Paramount studio, perched on a high stool on the "Waikiki Wedding" set where he is writing for the Bing Crosby picture, and told his tale of woe.

"We didn't leave the industry," he complained. "It left us."

Laurel and Hardy, Charley Chase and Andy Clyde are about the only ones who listed through it and the rest of us just seemed to drop out.

From three Sennett, Roach, and Christie comedies there came such people as Carole Lombard, Gloria Swanson, Phyllis Haver, Harold Lloyd, Mabel Normand, Marie Prevost, Betty Compson, Bebe Daniels, Charlie Chaplin, Zasu Pitts, Thelma Todd, Patsy Kelly and Wallace Beery. Wesley Ruggles now producer-director at Paramount, was a Keystone cop.

Makes Costumes

Dwight Franklin was engaged today as costume designer for Cecil B. DeMille's forthcoming "The Buccaneer," being the first of a number of recruits for the new picture.

De-Nuded

Quantity of heavy winter clothing required to outfit Paramount's Ben Hecht-Lee Garmes picture, for a location in Sun Valley, Idaho, completely depleted stocks of all Los Angeles and Hollywood stores.

First Smoke

Astrid Allwyn had to learn to smoke for her role in Paramount's "Murder Goes to College," starring Roscoe Karns, Lynne Overman and Marsha Hunt in the leading roles.

Actors As Writers Don't Write A Line

Lew Ayres, Eugene Pallette and Benny Baker portray three writers in the picture "The Crime Nobody Saw," without ever doing any writing.

All set to write a mystery play as the story opens, the collaborators are sidetracked by an actual mystery in which they become involved by impersonating police. Ayres explained today.

The mystery is finally solved, and, in the end, the trio seem to have a ready-made plot for their play.

Record

Paramount's film rentals for the month of January, the record month of the Adolph Zukor-Sheer Jubilee drive, hit a seven-year high. Neil Agnew, vice-president, in charge of sales, announced today. The first month of 1937 produced the best business since 1930 and ran more than 37 per cent ahead of the same month in 1936.

LONE SAILOR, TWO MISSING, GETS CLEARANCE

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados, April 2.—Ninth Hansen 27-year-old Gosman student, sailed today for Lisbon, Portugal, in his yacht Nansen and he sailed alone.

When Hansen arrived here two weeks ago in an exhausted state, he told of how two passengers, who had set out with him from the Canary Islands disappeared from the yacht while he was asleep March 2.

Octavio Leagino of Belgium and Raymond Cartier, Swiss oceanographer, have not been heard from since, Hansen explained they were lovers, and suggested they were plunged overboard when they had quarrel of a husband in which Miss Leagino had been restraining snapped when Cartier feared ever to embrace her.

An official investigation of the tragedy was conducted and a coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death. The jury accepted Hansen's explanation of the disappearance of the two passengers yesterday and Cartier himself is under bond.

Italian Now Holds Air Speed Mark

ROME, April 2.—The Italian Fiorio Niclot claimed a world's record for hydroplanes today by attaining official national championship—the Schneider at 317.836 kilometres an hour (313.647 M.P.H.).

Frenchman, Maurice Arnoux, was the recognized record holder at 297.697 miles an hour.

Raft To Star Soon In Special Picture

George Raft, Paramount star, has been loaned to H. E. Salisbury for the male lead opposite Ida Lupino in "This's What Girls Ask Made Of," an original story written especially for Raft several years ago by Norman Krasna.

Production on the picture, directed by Alfred Santell, will get under way after the Nebulbird plant moves to the Gale Conkey ranch, 30 miles north of Fresno, where "Her Husband Lies," formerly "The Love Trap," co-featuring Gail Patrick and Ricardo Cortez, and added scenes for "John Meade's Woman," co-starring Edward Arnold and Francine Larrimore, are filmed.

HER NAME IN LIGHTS

DAPHNE BRETT

CHAPTER XXV

"NO, Jennifer! If I've told you once, I've told you 50 times that you're to stop remembering you are Jennifer Brett. You're Louise Goldsby. The man is NOT wrong. You are taking the blame for it. You've got to have every tiny gesture exactly the way I have it."

Jennifer waited docilely.

"If you do not shade the part precisely as I do, you'll be out. Now take it again. And lower your head; don't fling it up. Oh, no." Daphne was unutterably weary. She had been rehearsing all day.

"Go on home, kids," Hoadley had said, "and forget the show. We'll take it through from start to fin'sh tomorrow at 10. Three days to opening and you need a respite."

Daphne had come home to rehearse Jennifer—a new Jennifer. She was a subdued, grateful Jennifer only too glad to try to remember all the things that Larry had said to her about Daphne and to relate them, bringing them out like jewels for Daphne to treasure.

"He was so sure that your job meant more to you than anything else. Why did you let him?"

Even then Daphne couldn't tell Jennifer why she had done it. The money was there and she was free. Free to marry Larry if he still wanted her.

* * *

If he still wanted her. Could she believe what Jennifer had told her? She dreamed a little while the script was in her hand.

"Have I got it?" Jennifer demanded as she made her exit.

"Oh . . . oh, I'm sorry. I wasn't looking. I was thinking."

"Daphne, look," Jennifer squatted on the floor tailor-fashion. "You must admit I'm doing a good job of reforming."

"Excellent," Daphne granted.

"Then, why won't you tell me what you've got up your sleeve? I'm perishing of curiosity. You're working me like mad, and yet you have an understudy. And you insist that you're going to open Tuesday in the show. Now, what does it all mean?"

"I can't tell you, Jennifer. I have promised you that you're going to play the part. Please don't ask me to explain anything else. Trust me."

Jennifer was 19. She sighed. "Okay. How about some food."

Over their crackers and milk, Daphne said, "Jennifer, I want Larry to come to the opening."

"You don't seem to learn, do you, Daph? Wild horses couldn't keep him away. He'll be there somewhere in the audience. I don't know why you haven't more confidence about yourself. If I had what you've got . . ."

Daphne couldn't yet get used to the idea that Jennifer had been jealous of her, had thought she was more attractive in every way. Jennifer had been sincere. Daphne knew, and she was never to be able to reason why.

"You'll have the world in the cup of your hand, if you use your head."

"But, Daphne, what good will all this rehearsing do if Gordon won't let me take the understudy?"

"Oh, I forgot to tell you! He said he would. The day after the show opens."

* * *

Daphne didn't tell Jennifer about the scene in Gordon Hersberg's office when she told him that she had rehearsed Jennifer in every nuance of her part. Or that she had told him why she wanted to open and then what she wanted to do. She hadn't known he would understand at once. She told him about Larry, promised him a performance equal to her own in Jennifer and had got ten his promise in return. It hadn't been easy.

"The day after?"

"But why not the day when it does . . ."

"Jennifer! Please!"

"All right, sorry. By the way, how many seats do I get for opening night?"

"I'm not the star you know, honey. You'll get two seats. On the aisle and not too far down front."

"That's what I call the treatment! Why am I going to be the stepchild?"

"Because my dear girl, you are going to have a job. You're going to have a look-see over that audience and find Larry. If he is there, you're going to bring him to my dressing room. Now who's so dumb?"

Jennifer reached a hand across the table. "Shake, gal. You're getting there. I suppose after that I'm to make a laughing exit or do I pull a minister out of my pocket?"

"I'm not quite sure what you do after that. Or even if Larry will be there. But I've no doubt the Brett sisters will have no trouble taking cues from each other."

"You won't have any trouble with me, Daphne. I've learned my lesson and I'm so ashamed."

"You ought to be ashamed to be up this late with all we have to do. Leave the glasses in the sink, Maggie'll take care of them in the morning. Oh, I'm so tired! I'll probably fall asleep when I sit on the sofa in the second act opening night."

Opening night.

A Herzberg opening. Gilda Kayle in the leading role. First string critics. Ermine and orchids. Tails and tophats. A first night audience. Bright lights and laughter. Diamonds and street urchins. The people who "came to look" at the people "attending."

A house filling up, its shadows lightened by glimmering gowns. The clean new smell mingling with the perfumes of a thousand odeurs. The orchestra coming up out of the darkness to take places in the pit. The lights dimming, dimmed.

The faint echo in front of the ring backstage. Curtain going up. One minute of absolute silence.

The butler crosses the stage, raises a curtain, straightens a drape. Clifton Sayre steps through the left door. The play is on!

Gordon Herzberg steps beside the figure of the girl in the gray, girlish gown. "Scared?"

Daphne smiled at him. "Not a bit," she said.

He shook his head. "Too bad, Daphne. You have everything an actress needs. Beauty, brains, understanding and a selfishness."

A few minutes later when Paul said, "You do her unfairly. The girl is . . ." Daphne made her entrance.

Then, in what seemed to be but a few minutes, the play was over, the final bow had been taken and Daphne was trying to avoid the congratulating groups gathered backstage. If Jennifer found Larry and was bringing him backstage, she wanted to get her make-up off first.

She ra ntoward the wings and right into Larry Smith's arms. It was entirely accidental but there they stood!

"Larry!" Her hands gripped the lapels of his coat and then she backed away. He dropped his arms.

He laughed a little. "Oh, I'm sorry."

"Were you?" she asked quickly before the moment was gone and they would be two polite strangers again.

"No, I wasn't really," he said.

"Then, why don't you put your arms back?"

He didn't. He said, "I thought you were wonderful and Jennifer said . . ." He wet his lips.

"What did Jennifer say?" she asked softly.

"It couldn't have been true." Daphne's eyes commanded him to go on.

Daphne, she said you still loved me."

"I do, Larry."

Dark as it was in the wings, he could see the radiance in her face.

"But now you have the theatre. I can't ask you to give it up. You are going to be a star some day."

"I did it because I wanted to have you know that even this does not mean as much to me as starring in a domestic drama called "Mr. and Mrs. Smith." Please ask me to give it up, darling."

"Please!" She clung to him.

He disengaged her arms, fished in his pocket for a cigarette lighter, snapped it on and held it to his watch. Then he grabbed her by the wrist, took her practically off her feet.

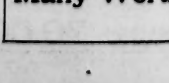

"Get in there, young woman, and wipe that stuff off your face. I'll have no bride covered with grease paint. And make it snappy if you intend to marry me tonight."

"It's practically off," she said, rubbing her face on his handkerchief.

THE END

TARIF-FIED!

Students: "Why are the politicians raising so much fuss about the tariff, sir?"

Professor: "I suppose because it's a duty."

Over The Speaker

By E. S. WOODWARD

An outstanding day devoted to advancing the ordinary legislative program of the session. But the members were looking tired and spent, following another prolonged battle of caucus which sat into the small hours of morning. It was remarked that Hon. Dr. Cross, who has surprising reserves of stamina, was showing the effects of endless meetings and prolonged conferences. He appeared weary but remained on duty through the session.

Dr. Robinson, powerfully built, from Medicine Hat, whose unfortunate vote on the motion to withdraw the budget seems likely to wreck the ministry, has looked extremely nervous and worried during the past two days. He evidently feels his position quite keenly.

A dull session was not without humor. When dealing with unemployment, Mr. Scottie raised objection to a proposal that it would be ultra vires of the province. Mr. O'Connor, K.C., M.L.A., for Edmonton observed with joyful countenance that the objection came strangely from a supporter of the present government who were specialists in ultra vires measures. This reference to recent court decisions affecting the fate of important government legislation was enjoyed in all parts of the house. The premier had his first good laugh during the present week.

Amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act were introduced by Mr. Hugill and gave Mr. Unwin, M.L.A. for Edson, the chance to inquire when the promised inquiry into the whole subject of workmen's compensation would be undertaken. Premier did not propose to vote for the present legislation until something more definite was done to deal with the matter more comprehensively. Mr. Hugill assured Mr. Unwin that the matter was not being overlooked but his assurances lacked a little in definiteness.

The vexed question of what is the right method of land assessment was raised once again and will always be a bone of contention until the value rather than net or salevalue is recognized. Gross value is the sum of the equities in the property and is determined by adding the value to the capitalized value of the annual taxes. The latter is the public equity in the property. Any slight change in the tax rate automatically disturbs and invalidates any assessment based on net or sale value. The gross value remains much more stable.

* * *

The right of men to organize has long been recognized in British law but it has been difficult to fix responsibility for violations of the law. Directors of industrial companies have been able to delegate all power and responsibility on to subordinate officers. A bill now before the assembly seeks to correct this defect. Any breach of the law by a company will now automatically be deemed to have been committed by each director unless he can prove that he endeavoured to prevent the said breach. Hon. Mr. Maynard failed to secure an amendment to the effect that the director should be guiltless unless he had knowledge but he did not press the point.

A very lengthy act dealing with co-operative associations was dealt with. It is too lengthy for review here. I call attention however to one objectionable clause. Clause 17 provides that if any director of a co-operative is, to the satisfaction of the court, guilty of neglect of or disloyalty without adequate causes being shown to the satisfaction of the court, he himself may by the solution declare his office vacant and proceed to fill the vacancy in the manner provided by the bylaws.

A hurried scanning of the bill has failed to reveal therein a precise legal definition of "disloyalty" and there is no formal procedure laid down for the laying of charges, the filing of notices, the calling of witnesses or for protecting the individual from petty spite or faulty action on the part of other members of the board. His accusers are also his judges, jury and executioners. Any act of criticism might be construed by some persons as disloyalty, yet the critic might be right and his services might be invaluable to the co-operative association.

In view of the fact that directors of co-operative associations are elected by the membership and can be removed on any election day the clause should receive consideration to determine its right to pass. The bill to validate an Edmonton land subject of inquiry by Mr. Bowlen was laid over for consideration later.

The House skipped teatime today. Business was so far advanced that the members decided to push through without intermission. At about 5 p.m. adjournment came and the House sat through. Social Credit members will once more assemble in caucus this evening. These, together with sections party in any British legislature ever before held so many caucus meetings. These, together with sectional meeting attended by smaller groups, have kept the Social Credit members busy at all hours from early morning to late at night. Even during the Easter recess there was no such thing as relaxation. No one who knows the amount of nervous energy expended by members during this session will grudge them their indemnities.

Mrs. Patterson Will Be Buried At Bethany, Ont.

Mrs. Margaret Ruth Patterson, 26, wife of George P. Patterson of Waterways, Alta., who died in hospital in Edmonton Wednesday night, will be buried in Bethany, Ont., the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Hamilton.

Mr. Patterson, who arrived in Edmonton by plane Thursday, will take his wife's body east on Friday night's C.N.R. train and will be accompanied by Walter Stauffer of Edmonton. Funeral will be held in Bethany on Tuesday.

Mrs. Patterson, the former Nurse Hamilton, of the Anglican Mission hospital at Aklavik, died here after being flown to Edmonton by plane when she became critically ill on Wednesday.

Gerry Is Compared To Quints As Draw

MONTREAL, April 2.—Mrs. Oliva Dionne, mother of the quintuplets, has done more for the Canadian tourist trade than all the governments of the Dominion since 1867, G. G. McGeer (Vancouver-Burrard) said in an address here today.

Camillien Houde, former Montreal mayor, said Mr. McGeer was to federal politics what the five babies were to "tourism."

Dies In Sleep

TORONTO, April 2.—Rev. John E. Hunter, 48, Methodist minister here for more than 20 years, died in his sleep Thursday after a long illness. Mrs. Hunter suffered a stroke, and since then had never spoken a word nor moved from his bed.

Going To Death

Ras Desta Demtu, son-in-law of the deposed Haile Selassie, and last of the great chieftains of Ethiopia still actively opposing the Italian invaders, is shown in the custody of Italian troops. Crushed by his final defeat, Ras Desta is pictured a few minutes before he was led before the firing squad.

GIBRALTAR, April 2.—Ten insurgent Spaniards who said they had deserted from the garrison at Ceuta, Spanish Morocco, reached Gibraltar Thursday in a rowboat, exhausted by their trip across the straits.

Grain Commission To Sit In Court House On April 6

The Turgeon Grain Commission is scheduled to begin its Edmonton sessions Tuesday, April 6, in the court house, John Blue, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said Friday.

Submissions dealing with local aspects of the grain trade will be made by the Chamber's grain section. National problems of the industry, it is pointed out, were reviewed at the Winnipeg and Saskatoon sittings. At present the commission is at Vancouver, where it is dealing primarily with the question of freight rates and allied issues.

Presided over by Mr. Justice Turgeon, Canada's expert investigator, the commission is armed with a battery of legal talent to assist it in its survey of the dominion's agricultural difficulties. Some of these distinguished lawyers are Hon J. L. Ralston, former Liberal member of parliament, K. W. Brockington, K.C., and J. I. Coyne, K.C., of Winnipeg.

Tax On Eastern Bees Made Issue

WINNIPEG, April 2—Manitoba's five per cent. per bottle tax on Ontario and Quebec beer came under fire in the legislature's public accounts committee Thursday, and two opposition members gave notice the subject would be made an issue in the House.

Appearance of R. D. Waugh, liquor commissioner, before the committee regarding the commission's employment policy, raised the tax issue.
